'Auctioneer's Nite' benefits St. Peter's

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

The ninth annual Auctioneer's Nite on April 21 to benefit St. Peter School in Antioch will have a Hawaiian theme and many weeklong tropical trips to support it.

The evening will begin with cocktails at 6 p.m. (cash bar) followed by a buffet dinner at 7 p.m. and the live auction at 8 p.m. The silent auction will run throughout the evening. Guests can hula to "Celebration Sounds," disc jockey provided music after the auction.

The tropical trips being sold at auction include a condo in Hawaii, Orlando and the Bahamas. A weekend in Door County is being offered for those wanting to stay a little closer to home.

Other items being auctioned include a man's Schwinn bicycle, a wine and beer party, a lawn mower, a skybox suite at Comisky Park for 16 people that includes food and drinks, tickets to the blue man group, a day on the Chain fishing with the assistance of a fishing pro, a Mario Tricosi spa day, Bears tickets, as well as tickets to Cubs, Sox and Brewers games and more.

State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) is donating an opportunity for one 9-16-year-old to be a page for a day on the floor of the House of Representatives in Springfield for the auction. "This is one of the most unusual auction items," said Caroline Schartz, one of the event organizers.

There will be one raffle during the event for one year's tuition to St. Peter School. Raffle tickets will be sold for $10 each. "For those who don't have a student at St. Peter, a cash payout will be awarded," said Schartz.

The buffet menu consists of beef brochette, teriyaki chicken, garden and fruit salad, vegetables, dinner roll and dessert.

Tickets are available at Realty World and the State Bank of the Lakes prior to the event, as well as at the door on Auctioneer's Nite for $12.50 per person.

"We hope this fundraiser will be well attended," said Schartz. "It helps us give our students access to opportunities to prepare them for high school."

FWA garners grant for Catherine-Channel work

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

The future of Lake Catherine and Channel Lake on the north side of the Chain O' Lakes appears brighter.

The Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) received a $246,000 grant from the Clean Lakes Program as part of a $600,000, multi-year improvement program, agency officials said. The grant will be aided by a transfer of almost $600,000 from the Ackerman Island fund the agency holds.

"This was something that was encouraged by Director Wayne Blake. It was something I worked on when I first started here in 1997," said Ingrid Enriquez, FWA director.

One of the objectives of the study, done by a Springfield engineering firm, Cochran & Wilken, Inc., is to improve fisheries population and habitat for improved recreational opportunities.

The IEPA funded 60 percent of the study with 40 percent from the FWA. The study will also be used by Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources, U.S. Geological Society and the Natural Resources Conservation Service. FWA Director Wayne Blake is pleased with the grant.

"Fifty percent of the grant is for the study. The rest is for the solutions," Blake said.

A new, customized aeration system will be designed, as the old one was deemed to be too small, Enriquez said. An aquatic plant harvester use was recommended.

The FWA will be responsible for oversight of the operation to control Eurasian water mil foil.

"The goal of the lake management plan for Channel Lake and Lake Catherine is to address the problems, to protect and enhance existing lake uses, to increase recreational access and opportunities, and to improve overall water quality," the report states.

Objectives include the following areas:

quality for Improve water aesthetics, swimming and other activities; eradicate invasive exotic plant species, particularly Eurasian water mil foil; promote and manage species diversity, density and location of macrophyesl improve fisheries population and habitat for improved recreational opportunities implement education programs to enhance the public's knowledge of lake ecosystems.

A mil foil program is recommended for both lakes, with 12,000 weevils to be stocked in Channel Lake and 8,000 weevils at Lake Catherine. The cost is an estimated $25,535.

The two lakes are hydraulically connected, glacial lakes that are located in northwestern Lake County, near the Wisconsin border. They are the two northernmost parts of the Chain O' Lakes and also the deepest, the report states. The two lakes are hydraulically connected with a shallow sandy ridge, approximately 4 to 8 feet in depth. The surface area is 337 acres for Channel Lake and 150 acres for Lake Catherine. The entire watershed covers 12,384 acres, with several other lakes within 10 miles. Channel Lake has a maximum depth of 35 feet, Lake Catherine has a maximum depth of 39 feet.

Public access to the lakes is available through many spots. There is a Rte. 173 access channels, semipublic access at various subdivisions, and two channels for access for boats which are smaller than a five-foot clearance of the Rte. 173 overpass.

According to a 1999 study, the lakes generate 40,000 visitors a year.

"If a 20 percent increase in user days is realized by implementation of the lake restoration program, then the projected economic benefit is $3,240,000. It is estimated the proposed restoration program will generate a total of $8,100,000 in economic benefits over a 10-year period," the report states.

Implementation of the program could begin as early as this spring. Its schedule lasts until late 2004.

Had the program not been pursued, there could have been, "a

Referendum to ease traffic congestion clears Senate

We have outlined over $120 million in projects that would increase capacity on county highways.'

Marty Buehler,

Lake County Engineer

Lake County government moved closer to a referendum asking residents to pay an additional one-quarter percent sales tax to fund projects designed to ease congestion on county roads when SB0697 passed the State Senate by a 43-13 margin.

The bill, sponsored by State Senators Adeline Geo-Karis, William Peterson and Terry Link, would give counties the authority to ask residents, via a referendum question, whether they would permit a one-quarter percent sales tax increase to pay for construction, maintenance, operation and improvements of county highways.

Specifically, the bill would add transportation to the purposes and uses of the revenue from the special county retailers' occupation tax for public safety. If levied, the tax may be used solely fro transportation or public safety but not for both purposes.

"Our State Senators did a great job pushing this bill through the Senate, and we're confident that the same will happen in the House of Representatives," said Lake County Board Chair, Suzi Schmidt.

The additional one-quarter cent sales would raise a projected $15-20 million for projects designed to mitigate traffic congestion in Lake County.

According to County Engineer, Marty Buehler, the additional revenue will go a long way towards increasing capacity on Lake County Highways. "We have outlined over $120 million in projects that would increase capacity on highways, county which would benefit state roads as well since our highway system is integrated throughout the county," Buehler said. A one-quarter percent sales tax increase would cost residents and visitors an additional $0.25 for every $100 they spend in Lake County. The additional tax would not be charged on the sale of food that is to be consumed off the premises where it is sold (other than alcoholic beverages, soft drinks and food prepared for immediate consumption), prescription and non-prescription medicines, drugs, medical appliances and insulin, urine testing materials, syringes and needles used by diabetics.

The Lake County Board and State Senators Geo-Karis, Peterson and Link are pushing the bill after a county sponsored survey of 802 residents found that over 60 percent would vote in favor of authorizing funding to address the traffic problem in the county. Additionally, a sales tax increase was the preferred choice by residents when offered the option of a property tax, gas tax or sales tax increase.

The Lake County Board made reducing traffic congestion and driving times one of its top priorities at its goal setting retreat in Janu-

Matthew, Nicholas and Amanda Marra were born on Easter Sunday 11 years ago, April 15, 1990, and this year their birthday falls on Easter again, a special event as the anniversary of their birth will only coincide with Easter a couple of times during their lifetime. Easter dinner will be at home with mom and dad, Denise and Louis, and three brothers and sisters Rebecca, 9, Melissa, 8, and Joey, 5.

"It's pretty hard to get bored around here with so many brothers and sisters," said Matt, with his mother nodding her head in agreement.

Multiply family members by friends, and the house really gets full. "I have a lot of best friends," said Nick. "I have like eight or nine of them." Rebecca added that her best friends include Lauren, Meagan, Matty, Katle, Palge, Danny and CAT.

"It's interesting that they pick a lot of the same friends," said the triplet's mother Denise Marra, one of the busiest moms around. "Though we did have a birthday sleepover party last weekend with 22 kids - and we survived."

The triplets love all sports but especially baseball and with three other brothers and sisters they can make their own team for nearly any sport.

"I'm a great ball player. I'm good in centerfield," said Amanda with her mom adding that she hits as well as she fields. Melissa chimed in that her specialties are swimming and jumping rope.

The three are planning on ca-reers as ball players, and becoming announcers when they can no longer take the field. Amanda has some experlence under her belt as she currently announces for her brothers'

The farmer who has been growing crops, including corn, on a portion of the Marra's six acres is going to make a baseball diamond on the former fields so the Marras will have their own "field of dreams."

Though if necessary, finding some sort of career to fall back on shouldn't be difficult for the triplets, or any of their siblings, as all are straight A students (of those receiving letter grades).

The birthday bunch attends W.C. Petty school as fifth-graders, though each is in a different classroom. Matt is a student of Kris Bolin, Nick of Susan Beinecke and Amanda of Liesa Owens.

When the Marra children aren't at school or participating in some sport, they help with chores, keeping the house organized and caring for the family's 15 pets that include four dogs, three pet ducks (Quakers, Cheese and baby Ritz Bits), four cats, two guinea pigs, one hamster and one rabbit.

"I've always loved kids and pets," said Denise, a fact that would be known without statement given there were years when she had five children in diapers and car seats.

She added, "The greatest gift | parents can give their child is a sibling." The youngest, Joey, said, "! think the bestest present is a hug and a kiss."

Portraits of Antioch Queens at Village Hall

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

The official portraits of Miss Antloch 2000, Nikki Paden and Little Miss Antioch 2000 Shannon Cahill will join the other former Antioch pageant queens in what has become an impressive gallery at the Village Hall of the beauty and charm found in Antioch.

The portraits were both taken and donated by Barry Dowe Photography, and were accepted by Laurie Stahl, director of parks and recreation as well as the pageant, at the annual presentation. Bob's Frame Shop in Lindenhurst donated the frames.

Stahl said, "We're very excited about the pageant for this year because we're doing a scholarship pageant. We have $2,000 in scholarship money that will go to the winner of this year's event. I got the idea from Lake Villa's pageant last year."

Letters went out to Antioch businesses seeking donations. The village engineering firm Clark Dietz donated $1,000, Raymond Chevrolet & Olds donated $500, the Antioch Jr. Women's club donated $300 and State Bank of The Lakes and First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBEO) donated $100 each. Addltionally, FNBEO is donating $100 to the queen's prize package.

Miss Antioch Nikki Paden and Little Miss Antioch Shannon Cahill hold their official portraits.

"We are thrilled to be able to offer this to our queen this year and believe that it will help some lucky young lady fulfill her dreams of college, and also attract intelligent and goal-oriented young women to our pageant to represent Antioch in the best way possible," said Stahl.

The pageant winner will be able to use the money at the college of her choice, but will not receive the scholarship until the end of her reign.

Applications for the 2001 Miss and Little Miss pageants are available at the parks and recreation department office located at 806 Holbek. The deadline for pageant entry is May 11 at 5 p.m.

The 2001 pageant will take place on June 16 at the Antioch Community High School Auditorium at 6:30

"We are also excited to be back in the newly remodeled auditorium of the high school this year," said Stahl. "It will be very nice."

Visiting geologist Larry McKenna, and the uncle of student Bobby Schartz, gave fourthgrade students at St. Peter School the opportunity to hold the fossils of real dinosaur vertebrae bones as he explained more about them and when on the earth's time line dinosaurs reigned.

"How old is the earth?" McKenna asked, and put into a reference the students could understand. He unrolled a roll of toilet paper and asked the class to think of the stream of paper as being 4.5 billion inches long to compare it with the earth's 4.5 billion years. He answered himself and said, "Earth is old enough, almost anything can happen."

McKenna continued, "Science takes what we know, makes a few guesses, and finds out what we don't know."

He explained how scientists would determine the likely size of a dinosaur from a single bone, and had one student roll the bone over 22 times on the floor to determine the spine length. Other students provided the visual placement for the head and feet. The class agreed the bone probably came from a longnecked dinosaur.

McKenna told the class he took four science and two math classes each year before earning his Ph.D. and had spent a total of 22 years in school.

McKenna operates a company called Working Knowledge that provides staff development for science teachers from Overland Park, Kansas.

"Eight of our most promising students will be invited to help set up the show and participate in the afternoon workshops," said Cindy Howell who teaches upper level drawing and painting at ACHS.

Workshops will be held for students during the day prior to the start of the exhibit. Topics include pinhole photography, puppet making, a fabric workshop, jewelry making, watercolors and making clay gnomes. A group presentation and a dinner will follow the workshops for the students.

The public will be invited in to view the exhibit from 6:30-8:30 p.m. with dueling pianists to accompany the visual artwork. Ribbons for ten outstanding pieces will be awarded to each school at 7:30 p.m.

Participating schools include Antioch, Grant, Lake Forest, Libertyville, Mundelein, North Chicago, Round Lake, Stevenson, Vernon Hills, Warren, Wauconda and Zion-Benton.

Intoxicated pedestrian

Michael E. Reilly, 41, of 25218 Rte. 173 in Antioch, was arrested for pedestrian under the influence of alcohol on April 7 at 3:10 p.m. on Rte. 173 east of Tiffany.

An officer was dispatched to the area on the complaint of an intoxicated pedestrian walking in the roadway. Police observed Reilly stumbling into the westbound Rtc. 173 lane of traffic.

When the officer spoke to Reilly, he detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on his breath. Reilly was arrested for pedestrian under the influence of alcohol and transported to the Antioch Police Dept.

There he submitted to a breathalyzer test resulting in a blood alcohol concentration of .15. Reiliy was put through booking procedures and issued a citation. He was released on personal recognizance pending his April 25 court date.

Police transported Reilly home.

Multiple violations

Peter A. Schick, 59, of 3324 Old Plank Rd. in Park City, Ill., was arrested for causing a traffic accident, driving while revoked and on warrant on April 7 at the intersection of Park Ave. and Rte. 83.

Schick hit another vehicle when attempting to turn from Park Ave. onto Rte. 83.

Police checked his identifiers through LEADS/NCiC with information returning that Schick's driver's license was revoked, and that he had a valid warrant through the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. in the amount of $15,000.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for failure to yield turning left, operating an uninsured vehicle and driving while revoked.

Schick was released on personal recognizance for those charges pending his May 9court date. Police then transported him to the Lake County Jail for the warrant.

DUI/revoked driver's license

Mark M. McClain, 43, of 21654 W. Birch in Lake Villa, was arrested on April 7 at 12:12 a.m. on Rte. 83 south of Beach Grove Rd. for driving under the influence of alcohol and for driving while revoked.

Police observed a vehicle on westbound Rte. 173 with the right side tires over the fogline. The vehicle then turned onto Rte. 83 without using a turn signal. As police followed the car, the vehicle was swerving severely within the lane, and then drove over the centerline and back onto the gravel shoulder.

When pulled over, McClain was unable to provide police with either a driver's license or proof of insurance. The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on his breath.

McClain initially agreed to field sobriety tests, but then refused all testing when instructions were being given.

He was arrested for DUI. McClain's identifiers were checked through LEADS/SOS and came back as revoked for previous DUI offenses.

McClain was transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he refused all chemical testing. He was put through booking procedures and issued citations for two counts of improper lane usage, driving under the influence, failure to signal when required, driving while revoked and operating an uninsured vehicle.

He was released on personal recognizance pending his May 1 court date.

No valid license, warrant arrest

Mark A. Abear, 39, of 275 Oakridge Ct. in Antioch, was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license on April 6 at 7:45 p.m. on Rte. 83 south of Wilton.

Police observed a vehicle driving with its high beams on and failing to dim them after passing several cars.

When stopped, Abear told police he had no identification with him. His information was checked through LEADS/NCIC with information coming back that he's not had a valid driver's license since 1984.

Illinois has sufficient landfill capacity for the next 16 years

The remaining capacity for landfills in lilinois is sufficient for the next 16 years, according to the most recent data from the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

According to the annual report, "Nonhazardous Solid Waste Management and Landfill Capacity in Illinois" 1999 estimated remaining capacity was down only slightly from the 1998 level.

The report provides data on nonhazardous solid-waste landfill use for calendar year 1999. It also projects the number of years of capacity remaining using data certified by licensed professional engineers. The report includes information on waste transfer stations, landscape waste compost facilities, incineration, waste generation and recycling.

During 1999, Illinois' 53 landfills reported accepting over 50 million cubic yards of non-hazardous solid wastes; up from just under 45 million cubic yards in 1998. Although the waste disposed increased 13 percent, the capacity declined only slightly due to new landfills

The report details waste-management activities in each of seven Illinois EPA administrative regions, and lists the volumes of wastes landfilled. About 10 percent of solid wastes landfilled in Illinois in 1999, or about 5 million cubic yards (1.5 million tons), came from out-of-state. About three-fourths of it originated in Missouri. Although haulers also transported solid wastes to other states, that information is not required to be reported.

Fifty-four Illinois landfills reported their available capacity on Jan. 1, 2000. Included in these figures are two inactive facilities: Spoon Ridge RDF in Fulton County and Sangamon.

Valley Landfill in Sangamon County. Also, Cottonwood Hills in St. Clair County was still under development in 1999, but reported its projected capacity.

Significant trends in recent years are the mergers of waste management companies, causing changes in ownership and operation of landfills and transfer stations in Illinois. The federal government pays close attention to the percent of market share owned by the various waste management companies.

The Northwestern Illinois Region accepted 99 percent more waste than the previous year, because of the opening in 1998 and 1999 of three new landfills: LandComp Landfill, Lee County Landfill and Onyx Orchard Hills Landfill.

The Metropolitan East St. Louis Region reported an almost 160 percent increase in capacity because of the inclusion of Cottonwood Hills Landfill, although it did not open until late Regional information identifies each landfill and projects the year each is expected to reach capacity. These projections, completed by the landfills themselves, assume no new capacity will be added.

In 1999, 79 transfer stations handled nearly 10 percent of the waste landfilled in Illinois. State officials expect this number to increase in upcoming years. The state's 48 permitted composting facilities processed nearly 358,000 tons of landscape wastes, a seven percent gain over the 1998 number. The state's only nonhazardous solid-waste incinerator reported 377,852 tons of waste incinerated in 1999. This facility closed in November 2000.

The report will be available by April 1 for viewing or downloading on the Illinois EPA web site at http://www.epa.state.il.us/land/landfill-capacity/1999/index.html, or copies can be requested by writing to the Illinois EPA's Solid Waste Management Section, P.O. Box 19276, Springfield, IL 62794-9276, or by calling (217) 785-by ACHS Dist. 117 will be paid by the administrative center cooperative.

ACHS provided the land for the township center that will be built on the northeast corner of the intersection of Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads, and will extend utilities from the high school to the center.

Antioch Township has plans to use the proceeds from the sale of its current building to help with the construction costs, and Lake Villa will add to the funding kitty as well.

When complete, the center will house the administrative offices for ACHS Dist. 117, and the Antioch Township offices. There will be a large area for senior citizen and community programs, and it will be the site for the Meals on Wheels program for Northwest Lake County, though the Antioch Senior Center will still operate the Meals on Wheels program for Antioch.

PM&L Theatre helps other theater in need

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

When Utica's community theater since 1913, Players of Utica, in New Hartford, N.Y. sent a letter asking for financial help to rebuild the theater after a fire, PM&L Theatre in Antioch responded.

"They had a catastrophic event and burned down," said Ken Smouse, one of the founders of PM&L Theatre. "They sent out an appeal to all community theaters in the United States asking for $100 to help them rebuild, and we did."

According to the statement by Players of Utica, the central New York theater was burned down in an arson fire that also destroyed the theater group's lighting, sound, shop and technical equipment, costumes and props, records and memorabilia and a new computer system.

The statement thanked PM&L Theatre and said, "Upon receipt of our letter, the members of the local theater group forwarded a generous donation...displaying that the term 'community theatre' has a meaning beyond the obvious one, and that there truly is a nationwide community of colleagues who love, support and participate in live theater and related arts."

PM&L Theatre will present a free reader's theater on April 22 at 2:30 p.m., and will finish out its 40th season with "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "Barefoot in the Park."

So why is it called Good Friday?

who we worship and who we wish would vacate some of the cable channels for reruns of I Love Lucy. So being Catholic has never really been a burden for folks living in the United States. Most of us, as children, were rarely cracked across the knuckles by any ruler-yielding nuns or threatened with eternal damnation for acts of misbehaving. Even though the weekly church going thing sometimes interferes with football games, there are plenty of other options to fit church in before kick-off (God was obviously not a football fan).

Some Catholics have a difficult time with not being allowed to eat meat on all the Friday's during Lent, but for the most part we have gotten use to ordering our pizza with only mushrooms or eating pancakes for dinner instead. However, this Ash Wednesday and Good Friday fasting requirement does create a few grumpier than usual Catholics.

On any routine day, food is just something we consume because the clock says it is time to eat. With our busy lives and hectic schedules, it is not unusual for us to eat a granola bar or apple for lunch followed by a piece of cheese for dinner. But then comes along Ash Wednesday and Good Friday and for those tortured souls who are supposed to refrain from eating anything of substance, well even brussel sprouts look appetizing.

We all realize it is simply mind over matter, because every overpaid psychologist tell us so, but these minds can't get over the thought of all that matter going uneaten. Usually the kitchen is nothing more than a nook off the family room where an occasional meal is consumed, but on those fasting days, its impossible to venture even near the kitchen without first grazing through the refrigerator. Every crumb in the toaster calls out to you, every morsel on the bottom of the refrigerator beckons to the devout; even the gunk that clings to the blade of your electric can opener has the hungry soul wondering "how bad can that possibly taste with a little ketchup on it?"

At least on Ash Wednesday, Catholics are easy to spot because they openly proclaim. their faith by donning "ashes" in the middle of their forehead. This makes it easier for non-Catholic to be a little more supportive of those toting messy foreheads—there is a reason for the gruffy attitude—their hungry. But Good Friday doesn't come equipped with any warning device for those confronted by the devout, so they aren't so easily recognized. But tomorrow ends the torture. Come Saturday, it is food as usual. So those of you out there driving on the highways around midnight tonight, will notice the surprising number of kitchens lit up all along the roadside. You can be assured that in those lighted households are millions of Catholics waiting, with fork in hand, for their kitchen clock to strike midnight so they can open the refrigerator and make up for lost time.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

n basketball, just like any other sport, the only way to get better is to keep playing. And it helps to have positive role models L there providing instruction.

That's the target for the Future Hoopsters Youth Basketball Camp, scheduled to begin its first spring session April 16 in the Grayslake High School fieldhouse.

Jerry Ming, an official for the high school and collegiate levels, as well as one of the camp instructors and coordinators, has seen his share of first-class athletes.

"The young players really look up to the older people, especially the high school players," he said. "They (the kids) get excited because they look at them and say, this is something I can work towards. They see their level of play and it gives them something to try and attain. And the instructors I've seen at various camps in the past are classy people, good students and excellent athletes."

Co-coordinator and Grayslake High varsity girls head coach Mike Muldrow also has high aspirations for the upcoming camp.

"Area high school players and coaches will provide instruction and demonstrations," he said. "It's going to be a nice camp where we can provide a lot for the kids while keeping the cost reasonable for them."

Speaking of specifics, the camp will consist of 10 one-day sessions, running from 7-8:30 p.m. Monday and Thursday's, the last day being May 17.

It is for boys and girls in fifth through eighth-grade. The cost of the camp is $80, which includes the entire session, a ball and T-shirt.

Interested players are encouraged to signup as soon as possible. Coach Muldrow also noted that the final chance to register will be the second week of camp, May 23.

"It's a little different in that it's during the evenings. But we're looking at a pretty good turnout," he said.

Interested parties can contact coach Muldrow at 223-8621, ext. 4970.

Hopeful instructors include former Lake Zurich standout and current National champ women's player Alicia Ratay of Notre Dame. Former Glenbrook South star and current Norwestern University player Dana Leonard and Larry Miner, coach of the state champ AAU team as well as Prairie State teams, are also being pursued.

Fox Lake's Lee Munster, age 9, participated in the U.S. National Folkstyle Wrestling Championships held in Topeka, Kansas. Munster qualified for this event by taking first-place in the 9-10-year-old division in the Illinois State Wrestling Championships last month.

He wrestled in nine matches, winning seven en route to a fifth-place finish and achieving the status of All-American" in the sport. During Nationals, Munster wrestled state champs and place-winners from Oregon, Wyoming, Kansas, Missourie, Illinois and Michigan. His overall record for the season was a sparkling 44-5.

Munster represents the Wrestling Factory of Libertyville, where he is coached by Tony Hernandez and John McGrath.

The Libertyville-Vernon Hills High School varsity boys Lacrosse team defeated Hinsdale Central 15-4. Luke Thompson, Greer Hanlon and Ken Ormsby each scored three goals. Tyler Labrum added two while Ben Mosko, Matt Hudson, Dan Yates and Nick Zare chipped in with one goal apiece. The balanced scoring attack was complemented by the strong goaltending of Andy Kapral.

Registration for Round Lake Spartan Youth Football will take place Friday, April 27 from 6-8 p.m. and Saturday, April 28 from 9 a.m.-12 noon at the Round Lake Area Park District.

The program is for grades 1-8. The nonrefundable fee for registration is $25.

In the works | Sequoit volleyball sets sights on county meet

By JOE PRUSKI Correspondent

The mission for this years Antioch boys volleyball team is simple; make few errors in individual matches and finish with a record topping last season's mark of 9-17.

"We definitely want to improve on last years record and finish as one of the top eight seeds in our sectional," said head coach Heather Coleman.

Key returnees on this year's squad have plenty of experience to lead the team to achieving their goals this year. Senior Ben Tatro, junior Adam Jordan and junior Lee Cimpoes will play major roles in determining the success of this year's club.

'This was a hard fought game. Hopefully this will lead us into the Lake County Invitational'

> Heather Coleman, ACHS head coach

So far, the Sequoits have compiled a record of 4-6, including a tough loss to Larkin High School April 8.

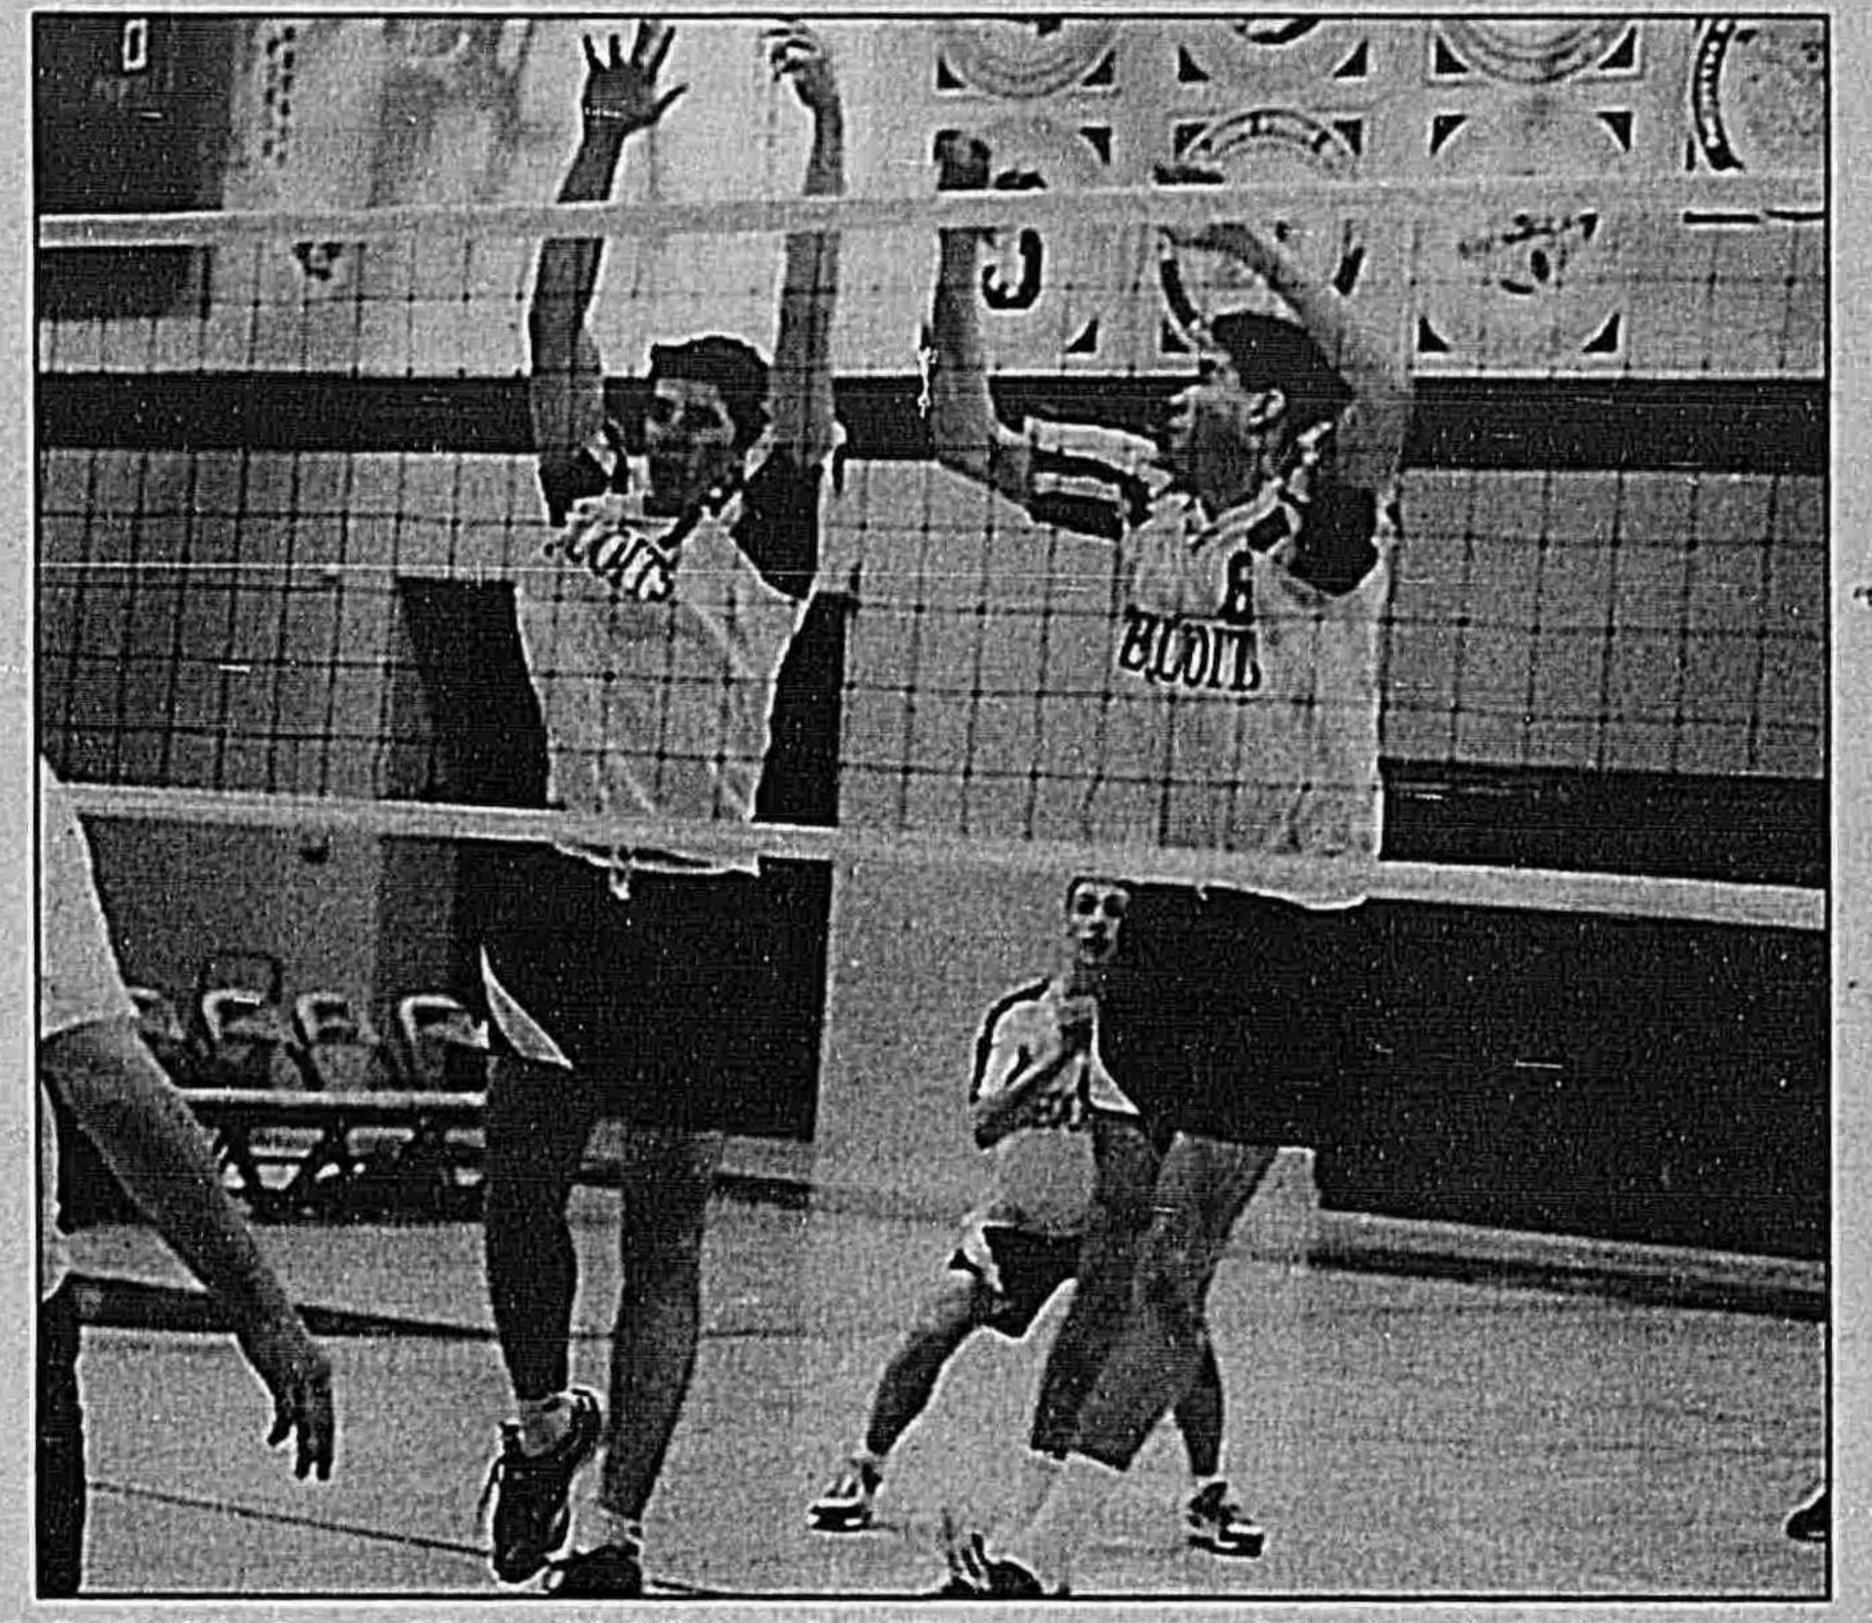

The team won the first game 17-15 but seemed to fall apart in the second, losing by a score of 2-15.

"We lost the interest in (the second game)," said Coleman.

The third and deciding game would stay close through its entirety. The team that held the service would prevail.

The Sequoits clawed to within two points late in the game (11-13) but could not get any closer, eventually falling 11-15.

Coleman attributes the loss simply to mistakes. The team finished with 22 hitting errors, including seven uncharacteristic errors from the normally flawless Tatro. On the year, Tatro is averaging over 10 kills per contest with a 91 percent efficiency.

Cimpoes led the team in kills against Larkin, finishing with 14.

"This was a hard fought game. Hopefully this will lead us into the Lake County Invitational," said Coleman. The team is looking to duplicate its fourthplace finish from last year by finishing first or second out of their respective pool.

Schools competing in the County Invite and in the same pool as Antioch are Waukegan, Zion Benton, and Mundelein, the same teams they faced in last years tournament.

The Lake County Invitational will be held at Stevenson High School in Lincolnshire April 12 and 14.

Lady Sequoit girls track edges Stevenson

By JOE PRUSKI Correspondent

The Antioch girls track team is quickly making their way towards the elite teams in the conference.

Such was the case against Stevenson on April 9 at Antioch when the Sequoits defeated the Stevenson 84-66.

As has been the story to this point, junior Sara Brzezinski led the team running by winning four events. Brzezinski set a personalbest record in the 300 low hurdles. She also finished first in the 800 with a time of 2:32 followed by Antioch's Mandy Hughes in second and Kari Hintz in third.

"I think I did really well, I felt really good," Brzezinski said. "I think I'm getting faster than I was when I was a freshman and in earlier years.

Aside from her individual efforts, Brzezinski also contributed to the victorious 3200 meter relay and the 1600 meter relay. Other members of the winning relay teams include Jessica Misic, Bonner, and Hughes for the 3200 and Amanda Dimarco, Sara Ezell, and Hughes for the 1600.

"I think we still have a lot to learn, but so far we're running great, strong, and confident," said Hughes.

The Sequoits also received help form their top distance runner, junior Laura Hammond, who took first in the 3200 meter race with a time of 13:01.

Senior Bethany Shore also contributed two first-place scores in the shot put (33'2.5") and discuss (101'10").

Head coach Brent Pitt feels his team is right where they need to be to achieve their goal of finishing in the top three in the NSC.

"Last year we finished sixth in conference. This year, we're going to surprise a lot of people," he said. "The freshmen are shining. If we don't do it this year, watch out next year."

As for the boys, they traveled to compete against the host school as well as Stevenson. The team finished second, beating Round Lake but falling short of Stevenson.

"The team is not up to par yet. If we work harder we will have better results down the road," said senior Mike Mercado. Mercado finished first in the 400 meter race. "I think I could have run better," he commented about his Junior Jared Stolarik also took first in the discuss. Senior Kevin Podstawa was beaten for the first time this season in the 110-meter high hurdles. He finished second.

"It felt like a ton of bricks were lifted off my shoulders. Now I don't have the pressure to worry about taking first every time I run," Podstawa said.

The girls will travel to North Chicago on April 16 to face Zion-Benton and North Chicago. The boys will host the same two opponents at home the same day.

Niles, Hungarland power Lady Sequoit booters

By JOE PRUSKI Correspondent

The Antioch girls soccer team is hoping to use the teamwork they displayed April 8 against the Vernon Hills Cougars as a model to follow throughout the remainder of the season.

The Sequoits defeated the Cougars 8-0 in a game that showcased three multi-goal scorers, a defensive masterpiece, and a record-breaking performance.

Leading scorer senior Emily Niles scored her seventh, eight, and ninth goals of the season in earning the hat trick.

Senior Lauren Konrath and sophomore Lauren Cole contributed with two goals apiece along with sophomore Robyn Mortenson, whose lone goal began the scoring for the Sequoits early in the first half.

"We played very well at times. As a coach, you always want to dominate. There were times we didn't...but we did a nice job," said head coach Charlie Trout.

Although the Sequoits may not have dominated at all times, their defense definitely did. Aside from pitching the shutout, they allowed only four shots on goal in the entire game.

Of the eight goals scored by Antioch, junior Lauren Hungarland broke the school record for assists in a game with five.

A modest Hungarland was quick to table the record and praise the team for a game well played. "We're playing a lot better. We play as a team and everyone is unselfish," said Hungar-

Konrath agreed: "Teamwork and moving the ball through our defense, midfielders, and forwards helped contribute to our win." As the team gains more experience, they seem to play together better. Niles feels that this is an important step in succeeding this season.

"With every game and every practice we're improving and getting better together," said Niles.

The Sequoits goals have remained the same through the beginning of the season take one game at a time and let the rest just happen. "When you play good soccer everything else takes care of itself," said Trout.

Although sporting a winning record early in the season, Antioch will take it one game at a time and try to concentrate on upcoming games instead of dwelling on past performances. "We have some big games ahead of us," said Hungarland. The first of those big games will take place at Polley Field, where the Sequoits will look to improve on their 3-2 record when it plays host to Libertyville in a North Suburban Conference Lake Division match-up April 19 at 4:30 p.m.

Entries sought Junior Solar Sprint

Teams of young engineers are needed to participate in the 11th Annual Chicago Junior Solar Sprint contest to be held Saturday, May 12.

Seventh and eighth grade science classes throughout the state of Illinois are invited to design, build, and race their solar-powered model cars in the contest sponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy, Argonne National Laboratory, and Case New Hollard Technology Center. The race will be held at the IBEW-NECA Technical Institute, 6201 W. 115 St. in Alsip, IL.

The Junior Solar Sprint is a national program developed to generate enthusiasm for renewable energy; to improve students" knowledge of these concepts and energy issues; and to encourage young people to consider technical careers.

"The contest requires students to use aerodynamics, applied science and engineering skills to meet technical challenges comparable to those that scientists and engineers face," said Argonne's Christine McGhee.

All participating teams will use a standard solar car kit consisting of a solar cell and motor. Cars are restricted to about shoebox size and must be powered entirely by the sun. The race will be run in heats until the top-performing cars are determined. Each car will run in two to five heats depending on the number of entries, weather conditions, etc.

Prizes will be awarded to top-performing cars. In addition, design awards will be given based on technology, craftsmanship, appearance of the car and a working knowledge of the car's design.

To register for the contest or for more information, fax the school name, contact person, address and phone number to Christine McGhee at (630) 252-3443. McGhee can also be reached via e-mail at cmcghee@anl.gov or by phone at (630) 252-3175.

Acoustic guitar workshop with Christopher Shaw to be held

As a descendant of steamboat pllots, "pathfinders," and other rustic archetypes of the Adirondack region of New York, singer, songwriter, storyteller, and neo-traditional acoustic guitarist Christopher Shaw is steeped in the lore of the American Northeast. Shaw has done some steamboat piloting of his own, but it is in his professional role as a recording artist/performer that he carries forward the tradition of the great troubadour/storytellers who have enlivened parlors, taverns, and roadsides since America's colonial era.

Shaw travels thousands of miles a year to perform for a faithful and ever-growing following, and has been enthusiastically recelved by European audiences as an ambassador of traditional American music. He'll be hosting an acoustic guitar workshop Wednesday, April 18, 7 p.m. at Grand Music & Sound, 780 Frontage Rd. in Northfield. The session covers self-accompaniment for vocalists, use of alternate tunings, performance and equipment tips and more.

Shaw has seven albums to his credit, including his 1988 debut, Adirondack, which is entered in the Library of Congress Folk Archives. Performers on Shaw's recordings have included such acoustic innovators as Artie Traum, John Sebastian, Garth Hudson (The Band), Vassar Clements, Cindy Cashdollar, Tony Trishcka, and Jay Ungar. Shaw collaborated with his wife, singer-songwriter Bridget Ball, on his latest effort, "Songs from the Big Porch...A Celebration of American Folk Music," an album that pays homage to America's rich heritage of traditional music.

Admission for the workshop is free and participants should bring their guitars. For more information, please call 446-4263.

CITIZENSHIP

It took him over three months before he was able to help 15 people become U.S. Citi-

Pena came up with a plan and by 1996 was able to get the INS to come and start giving interviews in Waukegan.

Pena also began visiting churches in Highwood and Round Lake (St. Joseph) every Sunday to help people. Around that time, Pena said, "I listened to all of the problems that the people had, not just immigration problems. I felt compassion for them and started taking courses on counseling others. My favorite was the 'Power of Positive Listening.' I have found it very rewarding to help people overcome their problems."

And Pena has helped a lot of people overcome their problems.

In fact, and incredibly, Pena has helped over 3,000 people to become U.S. citizens. These include people from Round Lake, Mundelein, Gurnee, Grayslake, Wauconda, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst and other towns in Lake County.

And these people have not all been from Mexico.

Pena has helped people from 39 countries, including Japan, China, Finland, Canada, England, India, South Korea, the Philippines and every country in Central and South America.

"I have helped people from just about any country that you can think of," said Pena.

In addition "Mr. Citizenship", (which people are starting to call him) helps residents to replace lost green cards.

One of Pena's favorite stories about helping others is the time a lady called him, and she was very upset. It seemed a car dealer had done her wrong and would not fix her car. Perez said he called the dealership and within a week the situation was remedied.

In the last year, Pena became interested in politics. Trustee Lucy Rios ran for City Clerk and lost. It was then that Pena decided to run for her trustee seat.

He won. Pena was elected on the same ticket with Township Supervisor Patricia Jones, Township Clerk Mark Strickland and Tax Assessor Pat Morris.

Pena said, "This is my first time being elected to public office and it is definitely something new. It will be a learning experience for me."

Pena commented, "I want to learn more about how the system works. I want to help the community and help build a bridge for our young people."

since March 16, 1973. He has worked his way up to senior mechanic. According to Pena, there are 92,000 Spanish-speaking people in Lake County. He says that 53 percent of students in Waukegan schools and 40 percent in Round Lake schools are Hispanic.

Census Bureau documents indicate that 35.3 millions people identified themselves as Hispanic during last years census. That is an increase of 58 percent from the 22.4 million from the 1990 census.

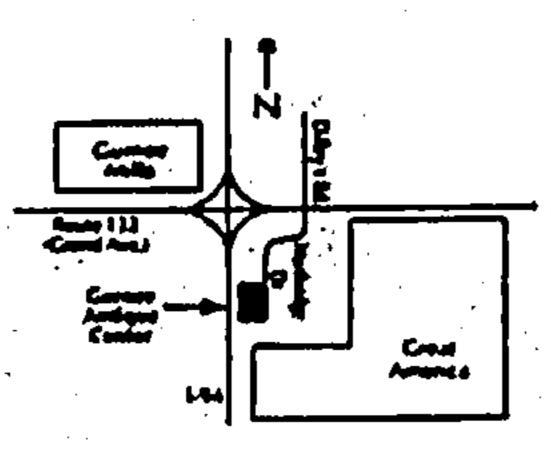

Because of the economic boom, northeastern Illinois has increased its population by 830,000 since 1990. Close to 69 percent of these new residents were Hispanic.

"Mr. Citizenship" wants to help as many people as he can to become citizens to enjoy all the privileges in this country. He never charges any money for his services and even refuses the money when offered to him.

Mr. Mario Pena is not only living the American Dream, he is helping others to do so and is a good example for everyone. He came to this country to make a better life for himself, but little did he realize what a difference he would make in the lives of others.

For more information on how to become a citizen, call Mr. Pena at 847-336-8108.

Excerpts from 'Bridget Jones' Diary'

aving read Helen Fielder's novel "Bridget Jones" Diary" nearly three years ago, I was excited when I heard Renée Zellweger would be taking the helm as Jones in the movie adaptation. Like many critics, I like Zellweger a great deal, but was concerned whether she could embody the spastic energy of the British character.

The movie begins with the character at her parent's home around New Year's for their annual turkey curry buffet extravaganza. Jones, a self-described "singleton," has made a variety of New Year's resolutions which include giving up smoking, cutting back on drinking, losing weight and giving up on men that are bad for her.

At the turkey buffet, Jones' parents, the "smug marrieds" as she describes them, are working on fixing their daughter up with a newly divorced young man named Mark Darcy, played flawlessly by Colin Firth.

Conversation ensues between the two, harsh words are exchanged and the day ends on a low note for Jones.

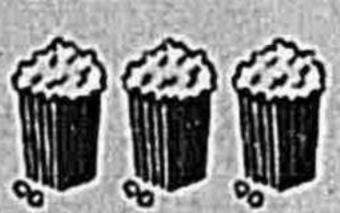

Comparisons of Jones to the American single woman stereotype of "Ally McBeal" are inevitable. Unlike McBeal, Jones does struggle with her weight and is not nearly as polished as McBeal. She works in a publishing house, but only as an over-rated secretary.

Jones develops an unhealthy flirtation with her boss, played by Hugh Grant, which she believes will blossom into something permanent. Through happenstance, Mr. Darcy shows up at nearly every intersection in the movie, making Jones wonder if maybe HE is the one she's suppose to be with.

I have to admit, this is a "chick flick." There is a pretty good fight scene between Jones' two suitors, but the action isn't enough to keep most men interested in the film. All three characters were played extremely well by their corresponding actors, Zellweger achieving fantastic British accent.

I am a big fan of Grant of "Four Weddings and a Funeral" and "Notting Hill" fame, though his character in "Jones" is a little seedier and darker than most folks are used to. Firth I have adored since I saw him in "Pride and Prejudice." "Jones" for him is a departure as he plays more of a haphazard romantic lead as opposed to his usual villainous character in such films as "Circle of Friends" and "Shakespeare in hicago Shakespeare Theater's reprise of "King Lear" comes only after an eight-year interval. However, the time is ripe.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

King Lear' reigns supreme at Shakespeare Chicago

Director Barbara Gaines has cast in the title role Greg Vinkler for what is now his 20th appearance with the company. And the new theater facility at Navy Pier allows more elbow room for the 26member cast as well as an opportunity to exercise some ingenious technical feats.

Vinkler brings all his dynamic talents to the fore as Lear, an aging 15th Century English monarch who foolishly decides to break up his kingdom and give it to his three daughters - determined by the love each professes. But he's bamboozled by Goneril and Regan, who lavish heaps of praise on their father but false affection. His favorite child, young Cordelia, is having none of this; she avows her love but won't get into a contest with her siblings simply to gratify Lear.

Enmity ensues. Cordelia is hastily wed to the King of France and in no time the falseness of her sisters' love becomes manifest. Lear and his personal retinue of soldiers finds themselves rejected at the hands of Goneril and Regan. Cold, comfortless and alone in a storm, Lear quickly finds himself raging at his folly.

An intriguing subplot involves another deception of the Earl of Gloucester. His bastard son Edmund convinces his father that Gloucester's eldest son and heir, Edgar, is plotting the father's death. Disguised as a homeless madman, Edgar eventually rescues Gloucester, who has been blinded for supporting Lear.

"King Lear" is a tragedy. When the pieces come together by the final curtain, don't expect for a happy resolution.

While Vinkler delivers a passionate Lear, no less admirable are the efforts of Lisa Dodson as Goneril, Celeste Williams as Regan and Ana Sferruzza as Cordelia. Patrick Clear, as Gloucester, does his usual fine job and Scott Parkinson shines as the Fool.

The special effects, including lighting, thunder and a drenching rain, create a realistically fearsome

Bear-y good news at Brookfield Zoo

British and the second of the

With the start of spring, comes a new beginning and promising future for both Tiguak and Eddy. Tiguak was born on Oct. 1999. For reasons unknown to zoo staff, her mother stopped giving her the proper care she needed. At just 5-days-old, staff intervened and began the long and dedicated process of hand rearing the vulnerable cub. As Tiguak's growth and development progressed, Brookfield's animal collection staff started searching for a companion bear for her. Since she was hand reared, it was evident that Tiguak needed to socialize with another young bear to encourage and help her further her development as a polar bear. Around the same time, the Jardin Zoo began planning renovations and needed to find temporary homes for its polar bears. Eddy, born in Dec. 1999, seemed to be the perfect match for Tiguak, since his transfer to Brookfield Zoo would benefit both cubs.

Eddy arrived at Brookfield this past winter. Since his public debut in Jan. 2001, zoo guests and staff have enjoyed watching him play in his new home, but more importantly, all have been anxiously waiting the day he an Tiguak would be together. The introduction process between the two 300-pound yearlings has taken about two months. At first, they were in separate grottos adjacent to one another. After about a week, they were rotated into opposite grottos for about the same amount of time. This gave the bears an opportunity to become accustomed to each other's scent and familiar with the habitat they'd be sharing. Finally, the polar bear cubs met face to face.

It is hoped that Tiguak and Eddy will continue their companionship, and eventually—when they reach sexual maturity at around 5 years of age—successfully participate in the North American polar bear breeding program.

At birth, polar bear cubs weigh approximately 1.5 pounds and measure less than 10 inches long. (Depending on its sex, the cub will weigh between 660 to 1200 pounds when fully grown.) Polar bears are born blind and deaf and are basically helpless for the first month, spending all of their time nursing and sleeping. They begin eating solid foods at about 3 months of age, and may continue to nurse for more than a year.

Brookfield Zoo is known throughout the world for its innovative, naturalistic, multispecies exhibits, and its international role in animal population management and wildlife conservation. The zoo is devoted to helping people develop a sustainable and harmonious relationship with nature. Open every day of the year, Brookfield Zoo is located at First Ave. and 31st St. in Brookfield. The zoo is accessible via the Stevenson (I-55) and Eisenhower (I-290) expressways, the Tri-State Tollway (I-294), Burlington Northern commuter line, and PACE bus service.

he internationally acclaimed folk trio, Peter, Paul and Mary, return to The Hemmens Cultural Center in Elgin on Friday, April 20 at 8 p.m. They will, again, entertain the audience with their warm charm and magical musical legacy, "Blowin' In The Wind," "If I Had A Hammer," and "Puff the Magic Dragon" as they celebrate their 40th Anniversary as a trio.

Since its inception forty years ago at Greenwich Village's Bitter End coffee house, the trio has been a union of distinctly different artists committed to common goals. As Mary Travers notes, "We've always been involved with issues that deal with fundamental human rights of people, whether that means the right to political freedom or the right to breathe air that's clean."

Although Peter Yarrow, Paul Stookey and Mary Travers each have separate interests and impressive solo projects which they've pursued, they are united in their respect and shared affection for the tradition of folk music which they view as being a music of activism and hope.

On Friday, April 20 at 8 p.m. The Hemmens Cultural Center will again be fortunate to have Peter, Paul and Mary bring their special warmth and music to its stage and honored to host their

'Romeo and Juliet' ignites the stage at Chicago Shakespeare

Popular 'Short Shakespeare' program returns to Navy Pier in Saturday abridgment

"Romeo and Juliet" tells the explosive story of star-crossed lovers, dueling families and tumultuous first love, concentrating the tale into 75 high-energy minutes. Presented every Saturday at 11 a.m. Now through April 21, in Chicago Shakespeare's beautiful courtyard-style theater on Navy Pier, a 15-minute post-show discussion with the actors follows each performance.

Chicago Shakespeare Theater's popular program, Short Shakespeare, selects the best-known Shakespearean plays and crafts them into shorter-length versions. With its timeless story and swift-moving action, this "Romeo and Juliet" offers high-quality entertainment that fits into busy schedules-and is a perfect complement to family-friendly activities on Navy Pier.

Directed by Kim Rubinstein, the production sheds light on the play's relevance to contemporary issues. Rubinstein points out, "I want our production to invoke in the audience a breathlessness as they watch. As an abridgment, it has its own passion and its own drive."

The parallels drawn between Renaissance Italy, where the play takes place, and today's world are reflected in all aspects of the production, including its costume design and musical score. Costumes are fabricated in leathers and rich fabrics, and characters sport bold colors and medallions-all as popular today as in Renaissance Italy. The score combines contemporary sound design and more traditional period music.

Tickets are $15 for adults, $10 for children and $8 for student groups of 20 or more. For more information and to purchase tickets, contact the Chicago Shakespeare Theater box office at (312) 595-5600.

Local bands rock Round Lake Social Club

By LISA ROWE Staff Reporter

Four bands planned to play a heavy-metal concert for a growing crowd April 7 at the Round Lake Social Club. Proceeds from the concert were to be donated to "A Safe Place," a shelter for victims of domestic violence in the Lake County area.

Understitch was the first band to play and got the crowd moving as they played their hardcore heavy metal tunes. This band has a lot going for them, using their own unique sound and style to warm up the crowd for the bands that were to follow their performance.

Understitch made good use of their songs, having a calm and slow sound one minute and a fast-paced, heavy sound the next, all in one song. Their next performance will be at Earthquake's in Frankfort, 7900 W. Rt. 30, at 6:30 p.m. on April 20. The cover charge for this concert is $8. For more information visit Understitch's web site at 209.12.216.109/stltch/shows.htm. The second band to play was Vis@40, who kept the energy flowing through the crowd with their mix of aggressive and heavy-metal tunes. These men made good use of the stage and encouraged the crowd to participate by singing along. The members of Vis@40 poured their own personal experiences and attitudes into their performance to create an experience that was unforgettable to those who saw them play. Their next concert will be April 14 at The Shack in Mundelein, 20886 Park Ave., 566-7000, at 9 p.m. This show is 21 and over. For more information visit Vis@40's web site at www.vis40.com.

By the time Cry For Dawn was set up for their set, the crowd was high on adrenaline. Unfortunately, this led to a minor fight within the small mosh pit that had formed. Police and ambulances arrived in the middle of Cry For Dawn's set. Because a few people sustained injuries from the fight, the concert was shut down and the final band Lungbrush did not get to play.

Up until this point, Cry For Dawn walked onto the stage with a dominating presence, commanding the full attention of all their fans. From the beginning, their music moved every person in the room, leaving not a body unstirred by the fast-paced and emotional songs. Cry For Dawn's singer, Ash, had quite a few fans who grabbed the front row in front of the stage, singing along to every song that he sang.

These young men showed a lot of talent, which might also explain why Conspiracy Records has picked them up on their label. Cry For Dawn's performance is truly an amazing one, not to mention emotionally and physically energetic to hear and watch.

Cry For Dawn has a few more concerts coming up, so if you missed this one, then be sure to check out the next show. April 14 they will be playing at Earthquake's in Frankfurt, 7900 W. Rt. 30, at 6 p.m.

Cry For Dawn will also be playing April 28 at Klub Phenomenon in Freeport, 209 S. Galena Ave. There will be a bus leaving for the show for any fans interested in attending the concert. Opportunities for teachers this summer at 'Trees'

Trees For Tomorrow's summer line-up of continuing education courses for teachers has been set with the first offering, Wetlands Ecology, slated for June 18-22.

"This year we're also planning a second course with a wetlands emphasis called Plants of Northern Wetlands and that one is scheduled for July 30 - Aug. 3," said teacher class coordinator Joe Panci.

In between, Panci said, are three courses with a forestry emphasis, one focusing on early childhood curriculum with an outdoor emphasis, and one featuring a backpack adventure to Upper Michigan's Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore.

"Each course is offered for one or two University of Wisconsin credits and scholarships are generally available to reduce the cost of the classes," Panci explained. He urged teachers who might be interested in attending one of this summer's offerings to call early for registration and scholarship information. The number is (800) TFT-WISC.

"The one thing our natural science courses offer that not many others do is the opportunity for teachers to get out into the forests, wetlands and water systems of the northwoods," Panci continued. "Teachers learn by first hand involvement and that experience is invaluable in reaching students back in the classroom. Many of our courses also include curriculum and activity ideas for teachers to take home and use in their classrooms.

Other summer courses for teachers this year at Trees For Tomorrow include Promoting Wonder and Curiosity in Early Childhood Curriculum, June 20-22; Forest Flora, July 9-13; Developing and Using Your School Forest, July 16-20; and Backpack Pictured Rocks, July 29-Aug. 5.

Teachers can call for a detailed catalog of course offerings at (800) 838-9472 or use email at trees@nnex.net. The website is www.treesfortomorrow.com.

Global Unity helped by caring families

Caring families are being sought to host high school exchange students from over 23 countries by the American Intercultural Student Exchange, Inc. (AISE).

This year will be the 20th Anniversary of AISE's exchange program and as more and more overseas students hear of the AISE program, AISE is committed to finding more and more caring families. Students arrive in August to live with their American host families and attend the local high school for the 2001-2002 school year. These eager young students, between 15 and 18 years of age, are coming to the United States to learn about America and the American way of life while sharing their culture with their host families, friends and schools. "Global unity begins at home," commented Anne Ring, President of AISE, "The friendships that develop during the year between students and host families are usually life-long. They do not lose touch with each other.

Students speak English, have their own spending money, medical insurance and are excited about becoming a part of an American family. Prospective host families are interviewed by an AISE Program Representative and assisted with the selection of their student.

Host families provide housing, food and a family atmosphere for the student.

Call AISE's tell free number at (800) SIBLING or visit the AISE web site at www.aise.com to learn more about the benefits of hosting an exchange student.

CLC okays certificate in medical imaging

The College of Lake County board of trustees has approved the addition of two short-term certificate options, one in Medical Resonance Imaging (MRI) and another in Computed Tomography CT scan). Certificates will be submitted for approval to the Illinois Community College Board.

The 15-credit hour MRI certificate and the 12-credit-hour CT certificate will enhance the competency skills required by registered or registry-eligible radiologic technologists to obtain advanced certification. Both certificates will be offered to address the shortage of MRI and CT scan technologists in Lake County.

In other action, the board approved a Memorandum of Agreement with the Great Lakes Naval Training Center through April 2006 to continue the college's educational and training services for Navy personnel, including courses leading to associate degrees, and reg-

Deadline near for plant sale

The pre-sale deadline is approaching for this year's Native Plant Sale. Order your native wildflowers and prairie grasses from the Lake County Forest Preserves through April 25.

Pick up a Native Plant Sale catalog and order form at the Forest Preserve General offices, located on Milwaukee Ave. north of Buckley Rd. near Libertyville, or call the Native Plant Sale hotline at 968-3333 to receive one by mail. Look at plant pictures and download the Native Plant Sale order form from the Forest Preserves' website at www.co.lake.il.us/forest/nps.htm

Advance orders will be available for pickup on Saturday, May 12 from 11:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., at Old School Forest Preserve, located on St. Mary's Rd., south of Rte. 176 near Libertyville. Additional individual plants will be available for purchase at Old School on May 12. All proceeds from the Native Plant Sale benefit the Preservation Partners and Mighty Acorns youth stewardship programs of the Lake County Forest Preserves.

While at Old School to pick up your plants, browse the native plant-related items for sale or chat with native plant experts.

Native plants naturally thrive in Lake County soil and weather, requiring less time, effort and expense to maintain. They provide valuable food and shelter to native birds, butterflies and other wildlife.

Lakes study provides blueprint for future

A study of smaller lakes in Lake County revealed that most provide habitat for State threatened and endangered bird species. It also indicated that these lakes have moderate to severe shoreline erosion, are moderately to severely nutrient enriched, and are plagued by the exotic aquatic plant species known as Eurasian water milfoil. The study was conducted by the Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center's Lakes Management Unit, and focused on 32 small, local lakes that are experiencing increased usage.

"This study is an important piece of a larger picture," said LCHD/CHC Executive Director Dale W. Galassie. "Our Lakes Management team first analyzes the conditions of the lakes to develop recommendations on how each lake's quality can be improved and protected. The team then works with the stewards of each lake, such as the Forest Preserve District, park districts, municipalities and lake associations, to implement the recommendations. Overall, better lakes protection helps enhance the quality of life in our county."

In 2000, the County Board provided a special appropriation of $95,000 and the Lake County Forest Preserve District provided $30,000 to the Health Department to expand its Lakes Management Unit. The Unit used the funds to add two full-time water quality specialists and one part-time lab technician, as well as to purchase new lab equipment. With additional resources, the Unit targeted lakes that are experiencing increased usage. While the funding was for one year, it is part of a five-year initiative.

Construction season begins on county roads

With some projects already underway, the Lake County Division of Transportation kicked-off construction season when it presented its 2001 construction program to the county board's Public Works and Transportation committee.

The program consists of over 29 projects involving 17 miles of county highways with an expected cost of approximately $39 million. Although work on several of these projects has already begun, it is expected that construction will continue on most projects through the fall, with several of the larger projects carrying over into next year.

The 2001 construction program is the result of significant planning and engineering efforts. A highway project typically takes several years of study and engineering to properly ad-

Youth Conservation Corps offers jobs, scholarships

Do you know a Lake County teenager who is looking for rewarding summertime employment? Young adults between the ages of 16 and 18, who are available between June 18 and Aug. 10, can apply now for summer jobs with the Lake County Forest Preserves' Youth Conservation Corps (YCC).

Applications are available now and can be picked up at the Forest Preserve General offices at 2000 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville. Call 367-6640 for a copy, or download one from the Forest Preserves web site at www.co.lake.il.us/forest. Applications will be accepted at the General Offices through Friday, May 25.

On Saturday, May 26, at 10 a.m., the YCC job lottery will be held at Half Day Forest Preserve near Vernon Hills to draw names of the applicants who will receive the summer positions. Applications will be accepted up until the time of the lottery drawing. The drawing will take place at Half Day's Shelter C.

Applicants need not be present to be awarded a position. However, alternates will be selected only from those present at the drawing. Winning applicants will be notified by June 8.

Youth Conservation Corps Inc., a 501 (c) three not-for-profit that supports the YCC program will be providing three college scholarships for YCC Corps members. Participants may also be eligible for AmeriCorps College Scholarships.

YCC positions offer rewarding summer employment. Outdoor work experiences are combined with 40 hours of environmental education and outdoor recreation to develop an understanding of and an appreciation for the environment and a healthy lifestyle. Students receive training in basic first aid, conservation practices, construction techniques and the proper use of hand tools.

For the past 27 years, the Youth Conservation Corps has helped hundreds of young men and women gain work skills while learning about the environment and enhancing Forest Preserves throughout Lake County. Donations are the sole source of the youths' salaries for the summer conservation job program. Major corporate supporters include Abbott Laboratories, Allegiance Healthcare Corporation and Motorola. Contributions of all levels from businesses, foundations and individuals are needed and appreciated. A goal of $150,000 to fund 55 positions has been set for 2001. A donation of $2,500 supports each position.

Half Day Forest Preserve is located on Milwaukee Ave. (Rte. 21) south of Rte. 60 near Vernon Hills. For more information on the drawing, job applications, or donating to the YCC program, call Noah Arvidson, YCC assistant program manager, at 968-n a letter of appreciation to voters for their support, newly elected Gurnee Mayor Don Rudny set down an agenda for the four years of service that he is facing that could well be a call to action for Liust about all of Lake County's 52 municipalities.

Education keys quality of life

Listed as major challenges are reducing traffic congestion, improving transportation, maintaining the tax base, and staying financially viable without raising taxes. That covers just about everything except education and that is the purview of others. Or is it?

Rudny spoke of maintaining a quality of life that suburban residents have come to expect. An admirable goal, to be sure. Education unquestionably is high on any list of quality of life attributes. Village officials cannot ignore public school needs, particularly financial, because they are tied so closely to decisions made by village councils. Requests for more money made by Lakeland schools went down in flames in the spring election. Yes, the current uncertain economy was at fault, but there are other reasons as well.

One of the reasons Rudny and fellow new mayors are in office today is that voters are beginning to make the connection between more rooftops and their tax bills. The executive casualties in April 3 balloting largely were the result of aggressive growth policies orchestrated by municipal leaders in the '80s and '90s. Electors among other things are saying, "Turn off the spigot."

They have made the connection that the way unbridled growth impacts schools has a direct relationship to their quality of life, not to mention their pocketbooks.

We'd like to suggest one other agenda item for newly elected leaders. That is interacting with neighboring communities and the county to address growth and development policies that have direct bearing on quality of life issues. Hopefully, the new breed of village leaders will see the wisdom of working together to solve the problems of their shared agendas.

Development fiasco cripples all sides

By NORMAN C. GEARY

he Round Lake of 60 days from now: Schools close, Village of Round Lake approves another development of several hundred townhomes on Fairfield Rd.

In two months: 5,000 students go elsewhere for school while Round Lake village officials object to parking arrangements of development with several hundred townhomes.

This week: With a bankrupt school system in their community, village staff urges elected officials to proceed with the development anyway, even though elected officials have the power but not the courage to say "enough."

Absolutely one of the worst school situations in Illinois: Officials continue to do what got them where they are. Approving more residential development with more students for the school district that is virtually gone. Out of business. And, it's only the first of many.

Insanity, it is said, is doing more of what you have always done, while thinking the results will be different. Round Lake citizens, your officials are immune from their surroundings. They stand in full admiration and awe of their new village hall built with the spoils of increased tax money collected from THEIR share of the tax levy. (Within sight of a school building that will be shuttered.)

And, they're doing the same mindless hatchet job on Big Hollow and Grant High with their Valley Lakes 1,800-home development. And, they're doing it to Grayslake High and Grayslake Grade with their Madronna development on the south side of 120 west of Hainesville.

. Who is advising them?

Paid shills of the developer? Staff, whose main job is to build a resume? Experts taking advantage of the innocent village zoning and planning boards? Paid consultants for the land owner? Or, is it growth for the sake of growth.

People everywhere better pay attention and vote. Yes, the problems of the Round Lake Schools are beyond description. But, even the best school system can't stand the onslaught of well-meaning-but-ill-informed-grow-atall-costs villages. And Round Lake schools have had their abundant share.

It's coming soon to your school district. Round Lake schools are but the first (imagine what would happen if THIS was Highland Park?)

So, it's time for the people everywhere to shout, "STOP!" Not to the schools, but to the village hall.

Editor's note: Norman C. Geary formerly served the Round Lake area as Avon Township supervisor. He is a past Lake County Board chairman. Geary now is a resident of Antioch.

Habitat homes always affordable hile Lake County politicians continue their exploration for affordable housing. Habitat for Humanity is getting ready for an aggressive home building program for 2001 – 15 homes.

Made famous by President Jimmy Carter, Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit, ecumenical, Christian housing ministry with the aim of helping eliminate poverty housing and homelessness worldwide.

By any standard, Habitat homes built by volunteers are affordable. They're also sturdy, liveable and attractive. With construction focused on the south side of Waukegan where land prices are lower, Habitat for Humanity Lake County has built homes with appraised value of $110,000 to $138,500.

The local Habitat affiliate hopes to double production in several years. Executive Director Julie Donovan said research is underway to find building sites elsewhere in the county.

Biggest pusher for affordable housing is Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake), chairman of the County Board's committee on building, planning and zoning. Leafblad knows construction, growing up as the son of a master builder who operated his own construction company. The chairman also knows well the formidable obstacles confronting affordable housing programs ranging from political to practical.

Habitat is not a give-away. Homes are sold to partner families at no profit with interest-free mortagages. Each family is required to contribute 500 hours in construction needs. House payments are recycled to build more homes for struggling families.

Donovan answered a question frequently asked about Habitat homes. What's stopping new owners from selling at a nice profit? "Technically, nothing," Donovan replied quickly. Complicated multitlered mortgages provide a safeguard against resale. As a practical matter, Habitat homeowners fall in love with their homes and they wouldn't think of relocating.

Construction manager Ted Ramai says a basic plan has been perfected that meets building standards and codes anywhere in Lake County. Habitat always has an urgent need for skilled construction workers, but novices can help, too.

The county affiliate will hold a volunteer orientation meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 17, at its office, 315 N. Utica St., Waukegan. Monthly sessions are held the third Tuesday of every month except December.

Leafblad and other political leaders get tangled up over a definition of affordable housing. Maybe Donovan has the answer when she says simply, "We want to make sure everybody has a decent place to

Calling musicians

Vernon Hills Symphony has openings in all sections - strings, woodwind, brass and percussion.

Director Frank Lestina, starting his third year, invites interested musicians to contact him at 932-2282. Rehearsals have started for two summer concerts and a winter performance. Maestro Lestina has players as young as age 12, ever expanding the roster so he has at least 75 musicians available for a concert.

Valet parking

One of the reasons why Lake Forest Hospital is popular with Lakeland residents is free valet parking at the 900 and 800 Medical Buildings. Begun last summer on a "check-it-out" basis, the service now is firmly implanted.

Flood memories

Friends of outgoing Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug trace her defeat to a flood in 1986 that caused extensive damage to homes in Oakwood Knolls long before she came to office. An eight-inch rainfall last June 12-13 rekindled memories of flood victims, providing fodder for the April 3 election. Shades of Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne. History records that she was defeated for reelection because of a record snowfall that buried the city for several days.

Fighting taxes

U.S. Senate candidate John Cox will be handing out anti-tax flyers to last minute tax filers at the Chicago Post office, 433 W. Harrison St. Cox, first announced challenger to U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin (D-Ill.), says when he gets to Washington, he wants to "empower taxpayers, not the IRS." Cox is building on support he gained last year when he ran third in a field of 11 seeking the Republican nomination from the 10th Congressional District along the North Shore.

Waukegan Republicans ponder reorganization ith a Democrat still in the mayor's chair, Waukegan Republicans are regrouping around 7th Ward Ald. Pat Needham with an eye toward being a force in county elections next year besides re-electing Congressman Mark Kirk in 2002.

GOP leaders spiked reports of throwing support to Atty. Newton Pinn, who narrowly lost to City Treasurer Dan Drew. As a party, Waukegan Republicans sat out the mayoral election, heeding Needham's counsel to "follow your own conscience."

Waukegan Twp. Republican Chairman Charles 'Chuck' Willims was defeated for re-election as a township trustee to give rise to speculation over future leadership changes.

Creating confusion in GOP ranks was veteran Ald. Larry Tenpas' decision to pull out of the city clerk race after entering the campaign as a Republican. Telling voters "I want to be your alderman, not city clerk," Tenpas still polled 1,409 votes. Tenpas openly supported Drew.

As a footnote to the Waukegan election, Drew's success was another victory for Democratic strategist Pat Botterman, who has managed campaigns for State Sen. Terry Link (D-Vernon Hills) and worked with the Illinois Democratic organization.

Self help

If you can't help yourself, who can? That was the motto of Warren Township Supervisor Sue Simpson, who was listed as the biggest single contributor to the slate she headed for re-election.

IDOT deal

Lincolnshire officials are patting themselves on the back for hard-nosed negotiations with the Illinois Dept. of Transportation. Mayor Barbara LaPiana regards IDOT's agreement to build a four-lane road with a double yellow line as a major breakthrough. IDOT also will pay the complete cost of an underpass at Riverwoods and Half Day Rds.—if the village wants it—not a share deal as originally stated. LaPiana told residents that it is in IDOT's best interest to work with the village. So there.

Riding high

Vernon Hills officials have hit on a nifty way to dramatize how the Public Works Dept. operates. They've invited all-comers to an open house 1-3 p.m., Sunday, May 20, to take rides on the street sweeper and aerial truck.

Future star

Two veteran distaff Republican leaders have tabbed a Libertyville woman for a bright future in politics. State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karls (R-Zion) and State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) went out of their way to help Kerry (Devanie) Lultgaarden in her bid for election as a village trustee. Geo-Karis is a leader in encouraging women to run for public office. With three to be elected, Luitgaarden ran fourth in a field of five.

Personal investor

Businessman Taso Maravelas, the new mayor of Antioch, preferred investing in his own campaign rather than doing a lot of fund raising. Maravelas reportedly put $11,000 into his campaign fund and drew on a close circle of friends for funding support, including Peter Anest, who is involved in a legal dispute with the Village of Antioch.

Scouts honor

Two women from Lake County, State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) and Dr. JoAnn Desmond, superintendent of District 112 in Highland Park, were honored as Women of Achievement by Illinois Crossroads Council of Girl Scouts of the USA.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Lifestyle at risk

attended the public hearing in Beach Park on the proposed annexation agreement with DRH Cambridge Homes Inc. It appears that before the year is out Cambridge will be creating yet another "community" in Lake County.

Don't misunderstand, I've owned a home in a Cambridge community and my personal experience was a very positive one. However, I believe that lifestyle is incompatible with the rural lifestyle that I now enjoy. And, that is why, the comments made by Hal Francke, attorney for Cambridge Homes, trouble me.

During the hearing Francke commented that every place Cambridge goes, the reactions are similar; that the neighbors always predict the "end of the world" but that the "end of the world" hasn't come yet.

I am offended by the insensitivity and arrogance of his remarks.

Certainly these developments are never the end of the world for him or for Cambridge Builders Inc., but I would argue passionately that they ARE the end of the world for some and that is why Cambridge is met with opposition wherever they go.

The rural lifestyle is at risk throughout Lake County and all of us who have chosen a rural setting for our lives are vulnerable to businesses like Cambridge.

In Beach Park the changes brought to the area by Cambridge will be the end of the world for the two dozen or so surrounding property owners. That world now is filled with space and nature, stars and coyotes, horses and hay, solitude and freedom, and it WILL die.

Which is why Francke never sees it. It happens after he and Cambridge have moved on to their next world.

Ignoring friendship

I personally asked the village of Gurnee Trustees Don Rudny and Tom Chamberlain why they made such a hasty rush to their resolution opposing the expansion of gambling in Lake County, which was specifically targeted to hinder Waukegan's efforts in obtaining a gaming license. Rudny is on record that "this was the people's decision." Likewise, Chamberlain fanatically emphasized that he would "double his efforts" if he had to do it again.

Isn't it disturbing to know that our elected officials are willing to sacrifice long-time established political relationships for their own campaign purposes? Rudny's Resolution, as it is commonly coined, accomplishes nothing but weakens Gurnee's opportunities to obtain large state and federal funding for cooperative projects such as the East Grand revitalization and Lakehurst Train Station. Does Gurnee think Waukegan will contribute politically, financially or otherwise after receiving such a cold shot?

Mayor Dick Welton prudently and politely advised that Gurnee ought to let Waukegan handle its own affairs as Waukegan sees fit. Welton offers sound advice from a wise leader and politician.

Obviously Rudny and Chamberlain greatly undervalue intergovernmental relationships outside their own small political circle. We can only hope they have not done so at taxpayers expense.

Vigilance pledged

Although we lost our bid for election as Fremont Township trustees we want to thank all those who voted for us and those who helped with our candidacy. We are proud of how we ran our campaign. We came out early in the campaign with our ideas for the future of Fremont Township and the incumbents soon embraced those ideas in their campaign literature. Our candidacy brought to light many important issues and had we not run, Fremont Township would have remained quagmired in the same mediocrity as in the past, content to let developers control and devour our beautiful green space and farms. The incumbent slate won the election but they did not receive a mandate. We look forward to holding the incumbents to their promises and we will remain vigilant in our efforts to safeguard the future of our Township.

No benefit

Well, the Governor has unveiled his long-awaited plan for the tollways, and once you wade through the long-range promises, and the technical talk of defeasement and bonds, you are left with one reality—effective Oct. 1, our tolls go up to 75 cents. For that, we get less than half the necessary reconstruction and repair that was identified in the toll authority's 10-year plan and a southern extension to a road we don't use. We don't get improvements to state roads and intersections here that are in dire need of work.

The plan did not identify the additional costs to IDOT to upgrade local roads connecting to the southern extension of I-355. Those funds can only come from the already stretched IDOT budget, and leave us short of needed improvements here. The plan did not identify how the other half of tollway reconstruction and repair would be funded. We have more and bigger bills lurking in our future.

Any benefits from closed toll plazas don't start in Lake County till 2008, and the Eden's ramp plaza is with us until 2016. (By the way, by then the tolls have gone to 95 cents). The legislative oversight and the elimination of some toll plazas don't happen for years, and the ultimate elimination of tolls doesn't happen for 20 years—well after Gov. Ryan has left office. Since there is no way to enforce those promises, they very well may not happen at all. The toll increase, however, is immediate and very likely to happen.

This plan is of no benefit to Lake County at all. We desperately need a plan, and the funding, to improve Lake County's roads and intersections, NOW.

Ethnic jokes rile some, amuse others

ne day, while president, Ronald Reagan had a joke he couldn't resist sharing with a friendly pack of reporters:
"How do you tell the Polish guy at a cockfight?

How do you tell the Polish guy at a cocklight?
He brings a duck. How do you tell the Italian guy? He bets on the dúck. How do you know the Mafia was there? The duck wins."

An apologetic smile and little tap dance got dear old

Ronnie off the hook and he encountered only mild rebuke. He told the nation he was sincerely sorry and that "from now on, I'm going to look over both shoulders and then tell stories about Irishmen, because I'm Irish."

The tremendously popular television series, "The Sopranos," isn't getting off quite so easily. A Chicago legal group, the American Italian Defense Association, is suing Time Warner Entertainment saying the show featuring fictional mobster Tony Soprano violates the individual dignity clause of the Illinois Constitution. It paints Italians as criminals.

Time Warner replies, "We're hardly alone in our assessment that 'The Sopranos' is an extraordinary artistic achievement."

It has become a cultural phenomenon, attracting some 10 million viewers in HBO's 32 million homes. Some critics say it is far and away the best show on television. It's about ruthless, violent mobsters and full of despicable language, so it offends some folks but amuses others.

Also on the ethnic front, a columnist at another newspaper recently found herself with her foot in her mouth after she innocently referred to her French friends as Frogs.

One of the dictionary definitions for frog is a Frenchman, usually taken to be offensive.

The columnist agreed that short derogatory words for Germans, Italians and Japanese are clearly slurs, but it's hard to imagine anyone getting his knickers in a twist over referring to the French as Frogs.

I happen to be of German ancestry but can't think of any ethnic slurs that get my underwear in a bundle. Let's see, there's kraut, dummkopf, jerry, etc. I guess I've been called all of them (mostly in fun, I hope), and since I'm from Wisconsin I also respond happily to cheese-head.

The late, great Mike Royko did a memorable number on ethnic jokes a few years ago. Typically tongue-in-cheek, Royko responded to a letter from a reader who said, "I have noted that you manage to upset just about every ethnic and racial group. However, I can't remember your ever saying anything infuriating about Scandinavians. In fact, I don't remember ever hearing a Swedish joke. Because I am of Swedish ancestry, I feel a little hurt at being ignored. So does my wife, who has some Norwegian in her background."

"So," replied Royko, "as much as I abhor ethnic humor, just this once I will grit my teeth and get on with this distasteful business to fulfill this man's request."

Royko then printed a lengthy joke about a Swedish guy and a Norwegian guy who separately sign up for a luxury cruise for $69.95. Both immediately get whacked by thugs, stuffed in barrels and dropped into a river.

After a while they regain consciousness and find their barrels bobbing along together. The Norwegian says: "Good afternoon. Tell me, do you happen to know if they serve dinner on this cruise?"

The Swede shakes his head and says, "No, I don't think so. They didn't last year."

Key returning players: P Katie Hanvey, Sr.; 3B/LF
Katie Krajewski, Sr.; P/CF Kelly Durkin, Sr.; 1B Tara Mendralla, Jr.; C Tiffany Tietze, Jr.; Elizabeth Sims, Jr. Season outlook: Seven starters are gone for the Rams but the incoming corp is more than capable of filling in the holes. The only thing is they will have to get used to playing varsity ball. Winning the close games helps build confidence, as well as wins. Hanvey is solid on the mound. She went the distance in a 10-inning 5-4 thrilling win over Antioch. Durkin is also steady on the mound. She and Hanvey are the aces - both combined for all of the Rams wins last season with seven apiece. The defense should be strong behind them, with Tietze behind the plate, Sims and Piasecki in the infield, and Piasecki or Durkin in the outfield.

Quoteable: "The hitting should come around and the defense will be solid. Our big concern is how fast the younger players adapt to varsity pitching."-Head coach Erick Dircks.

Coach: Stacy Petrovich (2nd year) Current record: 2-8

Last year's record: 6-16 Key returning players: C Danielle Jakes, Sr. 1B

Becky Holem, Sr; CF Rosa Csultis, So. Season outlook: The Bulldogs have displayed plenty of offfense in their two wins, scorting 33 runs. They beat Round Lake (10-5) and Wauconda (23-13). In the Wauconda game, Cuitis had key extra-base hits. Senior Dani Jakes had two hits while pitcher Amber Hubka had two extra-base hits while scoring three runs. Lauren Hill, a sophomore call-up, doubled. In a wild game, Grant took the lead for good with five runs in the fifth inning after an 8-8 tie. Wauconda rallied from a 20-8 deficit, but Grant held on for the Spring Classic win for a 2-1 tourney record. Against Round Lake, junior third baseman Jessica Norwick, who made a nice play on a game-ending double-play, belted a game-deciding grand slam. She also singled. Jakes and Csuhlits were 3-for-4 at the plate with a triple and an RBI. Hill scored 2 runs. Hubka was the winning pitcher in both victories.

Quoteable: "Rosa did a great job. Hill is a third baseman we called up from the sophomore team last week. Our offense has been excellent."-Head coach Stacy Petrovich.

Round Lake

Coach: Barry Gurvey (1st year) Current record: 0-10

Last year's record: 5-20 Key returning players: IF Jenni Malueg, Sr.; C/OF Kalah Blue, Sr.; P/OF Jenny Powell, Jr.; P/OF Val Engelhard, Jr.; OF Gina Spear, Sr. Season outlook: Familiarity is key for the Panthers this season. That's because first-year head coach Barry Gurvey, who guided the freshman level for the previous nine years, has many of those same players on this year's varsity. In other words, this team is young but will get better only by playing. Malueg is a two-year starter while Blue is the only other senior with varsity experience. Spear, the third senior on the team, adds depth and speed to the outifield but lacks experience. Behind the plate, Blue should help keep the young pitching of Englehard, Powell and junior Christin Hoekstra focused. Quoteable: "Our juniors were very sound mechanically the last two years. It will be interesting to see how fast they develop on the varsity level."-Head coach Barry Gurvey.

Wauconda

Coach: Tim Rennels (2nd year)

Current record: 2-7 Last year's record: 7-22

Key returning players: C Laura Mau, Sr.; CF Stephanie Loomis, Sr.; SS Jodi Merganthaler, Sr.; P Stephanie Gertz, So.

Season outlook: Both Wauconda and Grant hoped to continue their momentum on offense after a 23-13 slugfest, won by Grant in the Spring Classic. Wauconda caught Grant at 8-8 and battled back again from 20-8 before losing in six innings. Sophomore Stephanie Gertz has emerged as Wauconda's ace. Senior Megan Gebbard also adds depth on the mound. The alwaysdetermned Jodi Merganthaler is back for her senior year. Laura Mau, a senior, who hits clean-up, smacked three hits against Grant, including a bases-clearing double and two-run single. Jenny Baird is also hitting the ball well, according to Rennels. Juniors include second baseman Joyce Haney. Haney and senior captain Stephanie Loomis lead the team in hits early.

Quoteable: "I am proud of our offense so far. This is a hard-working group. Unlike last year, they do not let one error lead to a multitude of errors. Their fundamentals are solid."-Head coach Tim Rennels.

Vernon Hills

Coach: Greg Stilling (1st year program) Current record: 4-7 Last year's record: First season

Key players: OF Allison Bonnem, Jr.; CF Natalie Near, Jr.; P Kim Rymer, So.; P Maggie Weber, Jr.; OF Alison Bonnem, Jr.; C Beth Plucinski, So.

Season Outlook: Again, the theme revolves around getting that experience. The Cougars have played well defensively while the offense has had no problem scoring runs in the early going. Pitching, with Weber emerging as the team's ace, will be solid. Weber, also the team's best hitters, serves as co-captain along with Plucinski. The first-year program saw some early jitters in an 0-5 start but has begun to find its groove, winners of four of its last six.

Quotable: "We have to start to scoring more runs."-Head coach Greg Stilling.

LAKE DIVISION

Antioch

Coach: Jennifer Schultz (1st year) Current record: 3-6

Last year's record: 11-22 (lost first-round regionals) Key Players: P Kristen Elstrom, So.; OF Amanda Pollitt, Jr.; IF Sherry Tossey, Jr.; IF Katle Birk, Sr.; C Laura

Season outlook: The Sequoits are looking to finish in the top half of the North Suburban Conference this year by eliminating early season errors that have plagued them through the first nine games. Through those nine games, Antioch has compiled 36 errors while striking out 52 times. On the year they have scored only 20 runs collectively, giving them a scoring average of just over two runs per game and having a batting average under .200. "We're having trouble batting through our order," said Schultz. Elmstrom is clearly the teams ace on the mound. Despite a 1-5 record, she's fanned 44 batters while walking only four. She also has a 1.14 ERA. Offensively, she leads the team with six RBI while Pollitt is batting at a

.300 clip (9-for-30) with one round-tripper.

Quoteable: "No team has beaten us yet, we're beating ourselves."

Libertyville

Coach Bob Fox (14th year)

Current record: 1-5 Last year's record 10-21 (lost first round regionals) Key returning players: OF/P Stephanie Bollman, Jr.; IF Annie Kirschbaum, Sr.; IF Sarah Wright, Sr.; IF Courtney Dydo, Sr.; OF Jenna Stark, Sr.

Season outlook: One word - development. With the split of Libertyville and Vernon Hills, the Cats are definitely in a rebuilding stage as just six players with varsity experience return from last year's squad. Head coach Box Fox, who enters his 14th campaign, will have his team concentrate on the basics, especially on defense. Kirschbaum, Wright, Dydo, Erin Hofstetter and Stark all saw time on varsity last year but at different positions. So far this season, the Cats have been in most of their games but the timely contact hitting is lacking. Also avoiding the big inning late in the game will make the rebuilding process more comforting.

Quoteable: "We're gonna struggle. We're not really experienced, especially in pitching,"-Head coach Bob Fox.

Mundelein

Coach: Ted Juske Current record: 9-3

Last years record: 22-8 Key returning players: P Michelle Kass, Sr.; C Lauren Bierwirth, Sr.; SS Brandi Simon, Jr.; P/OF Rachel Cleaveland, So.; 2B Trista Campbell, Jr.

Season outlook: The Mustangs' season will certainly ride on the right arm of Michelle Kass (14-7, 0.91 ERA, 198 K's in 2000) and Mundelein's ability to give her run support. The team definitely has the po-tential and talent to win the NSC but they need focus and discipline to avoid beating themselves. Like many area teams, Mundelein will focus on the little things throughout the season in order to prepare for its inevitable post-season run.

Quoteable: "The competition has gotten stronger and we have to come out ready to play."-Head coach Ted Juske.

Warren

Coach: Tim Van Heirseele Current record: 5-1

Last year's record: 18-13

Key returning players: P Carrie Nichols, Sr.; CF Joelle Thompson, Sr.; 1B Ashlee Browder, Sr.; 3B Tina Mrock, Sr.; SS Tracy Michaels, Sr.

Season outlook: For the first time in years, the Lady Devils will be anchored by offense and not pitching. Joelle Thompson, Ashlee Browder, Tracy Michaels and Tina Mrock all return to lead Warren in the field and provide run support for No. 1 pitcher Carrie Nichols. The lack of team speed will hurt the Devils on the bases and in the field on occasion but hopefully Warren will be able to overcome that and compete for an NSC title. Quoteable: "We know Stevenson and Mundelein will be good but we know we can play ball."-Head coach Tim Van Heirseele.

Lake Forest Hospital's lab advances provide clearer understanding of individual cancers ancer is a complex and often baffling disease. Even after a diagnosis has been made, questions remain: What is the exact nature of this person's particular cancer? What treatment will be most effective? Now the laboratory team at Lake Forest Hospital has developed a sophisticated computerized system called Quantitative Image Analysis, to give cancer patients and their doctors more detailed information than ever before possible. The reports can subcategorized certain complex cancers, provide more definitive diagnoses and prognoses, and help doctors know which types of treatment will be most effective for a particular cancer patient.

A woman with breast cancer, for instance, will be treated with different chemotherapy drugs depending on certain factors about her cancer. Breast cancer that is estrogen dependent generally is treated with the anti-estrogen tamoxifen, which "blocks" the estrogen that these tumors need to grow. A newer drug, Herceptin (trastuzumab), targets breast cancer cells that make too much of a protein called HER-2. To find out if a woman's breast cancer is "positive" for these and other determining factors, the cancer cells are analyzed in the lab using specialized tests.

The Quantitative Image Analysis system developed by LFH's laboratory team analyzes the individual cells comprising the patient's cancer. The resulting report is accurate and objective and strikingly detailed. "We now know the exact number of cells that are positive and how strongly positive they are," says Richard Clatch, MD, PhD, director of hematopathology. "The computer gives us information that is more precise than a human could possibly provide." The information helps pinpoint the exact treatment that will most benefit each individual breast cancer patient.

These specialized reports also are being used for patients with cancer of the prostate, bladder, uterus, ovaries, lung and colon.

Diagnosing leukemia and lymphoma

The LFH laboratory also has made great strides in diagnosing and understanding leukemia and lymphoma. "These are extremely complex cancers with many subcategories," says Dr. Clatch. Using a sophisticated piece of lab equipment called a Laser Scan Cytometer and a special 12-chambered slide that he designed, Dr. Clatch has developed a process to classify the leukemia or lymphoma and make a precise diagnosis. From only a tiny specimen, the process provides detailed information, on a molecular level, about the cancer's makeup, enabling the cancer specialists to determine the most appropriate treatment for that patient.

Dr. Clatch travels extensively to train other pathologists on the process, which is being used in only a handful or other institutions around the country and the world. For more information on cancer treatment at Lake Forest Hospital, please call 535-6145.

Lake Forest Hospital is a fully licensed and accredited 214-bed community hospital offering a complete range of services that are staffed by 487 board-certified physicians, with offices conveniently located throughout Lake County. could show it to her and convince her to get help now. Her daughter is 7 and is very much in a "shell." I believe she is in that shell because everyone does things for her and always has. She has 3 brothers and 1 sister. When someone asks her to do something or say something, the entire family falls all over itself to answer for her or do the thing for her. Consequently, she doesn't. even try to answer anymore or take : anything on. I see her shrinking into herself and I don't like it. I have told them time after time to let this kid answer for herself and do for herself because it will be better for her. They don't listen or stop this. I'm afraid that she will get worse and worse with time if they don't stop and that eventually, when she does have to do things for herself, she will have no experience with it and fall apart. I want to avoid this tragedy. Am I wrong? H.H.

Hi H.H.,

No you are absolutely not wrong and I appreciate your effort in trying to help this little girl. I also see this everyday in my practice and I help lots of people to let their kids learn to say and do things on their own. I do hope you share my response with your sister-in-law.

The problem is insidious. First, when the child is very young and really cannot answer for herself or do for herself, everyone helps because it is the family type thing to do. But what happens is, the kid who is getting helped gets the message early on, that he or she doesn't have to use any effort to get anything or do or say anything. It's easy for that child. There is no work or struggle involved because everyone else is doing it for that child. Think, though, what would happen if you got someone else to exercise for you. How much weight would you lose? How firmed up would you be? You would be doing none of the work or struggle so you would gather none of the rewards. It is the same with a kid who has everyone doing the struggle for him or her, but the child is losing out on a lot more than a weight issue.

You are also correct that someday, that child will need to use her skills and be independent. Unfortunately, in her family's desire to be helpful, they will have taken away her chance at being independent. What is even harder is that the longer the family takes the work and struggle away from that child, the harder it becomes for her to do anything herself. Therefore, when she tries, it looks far more painful than it should and in races the helpful family again, rescuing her from her struggle.

All of our growth comes from struggle. In fact, there is no growth without struggle.

This is why I get so nuts when I hear parents tell me that they are trying to make it easier on their child. It doesn't make it easier on the child. It just makes the parents feel better about their relationship with the child, for now. Later on, it is nowhere near easy to watch a child, who is now an adult, who cannot do even the easiest of tasks on his or her own because family members raced in and made sure it was done for him or her.

I think the worst case of this I ever saw was in my very young days in practice, over a decade ago. I used to do Psyche testing in the schools. I was supposed to test a boy who was suspected of being mute. This is a person who does not speak. I started to set up my testing equipment while the boy watched me. After about 5 minutes of watching me, he quietly asked me what was in my "suitcase" (testing bag.) I looked at him, amazed that he spoke to me and told him this: "I was told that you don't ever speak. Why do people think that about you?" He responded to me by saying, "I don't usually have to talk because my older sister usually does it for me." I about fell out of my chair when I hear that, but since then have seen lots and lots of it. My recommendation at the staffing was to stop the sister from constantly intervening and make this kid start talking as much as possible.

My advice to you is to show this column to your sister-in-law and tell her that the best thing she can do for this child is to strongly tell the other kids and anyone else who tries it to let this kid do and say for herself. Let her "cut her teeth" at home in a safe environment instead of having to wait until she is older and out of that home, when it may be way to late to change anything. None of us should ever be afraid to watch a child struggle a bit to gain great skills that will help them to be independent and competent. Try and get her to see me about it. I do this at least three times a week and can give her some good guidance. Good luck.

Can gardening improve your health this spring?

Turn on the television at any time of day and you'll be bombarded with ads for pills, powders, drinks, and exercise gizmos that promise to help you shed excess pounds. But before you shell out $50 for the "Chub-Buster 5000," get out your gardening gloves. Better health can be as close as your backyard.

Weed Away Your Weight

Spring and summer gardening can be a great whole-body workout to shed extra winter weight. Weight-bearing activities such as digging and lifting can build muscle, and aerobic activities such as raking, mowing and hoeing can burn calories. A 180-pound person will use 202 calories during 30 minutes of digging, spading and tilling.* Even 30 minutes of cutting the grass on a riding mower burns 101 calories. Other calorie burners include:*

•Raking (30 minutes) 162

• Planting trees (30 minutes) 182 • Trimming shrubs, manually (30 minutes) 182 Laying sod (30 minutes) 202

> Weeding (30 minutes) 182 •Turning compost (30 minutes) 250

As with any exercise, it's important to warm up and stretch before you begin gardening or yard work. Vary your activities to avoid overusing specific muscles. To prevent back injuries, bend from the knees when you rake and hoe or when you lift heavy objects such as bags of potting soil.

You'll also want to protect yourself from excess sun exposure. Wear a hat and use a sunscreen with an SPF of at least 15. Drink adequate fluids to avoid becoming dehydrated, and retreat to someplace cooler if you feel yourself getting overheated. Dig for Your Bones

There's even more good news for green thumbs. According to a 2000 University of Arkansas study that compared many forms of exercise, yard work is most significant for preventing osteoporosis in women age 50 and older. Researchers compared yard work to bicycling, aerobics, dancing and weight training. Yard work and weight training were the only two activities shown to be significant for maintaining healthy bone mass.

The Fruits of Your Labor

The best part of gardening may be the edible rewards. A summer's bounty of fruits and vegetables contains fiber that may reduce your risk for colon cancer, as well as antioxidants and phytochemicals that may reduce your risk for heart disease and some cancers. Fruits and vegetables are also low in fat, which can help with weight loss. The American Dietetic Association recommends that adults get at least three to five servings of vegetables, and two to four servings of fruits each day.

Will eating like a rabbit really improve your vision?

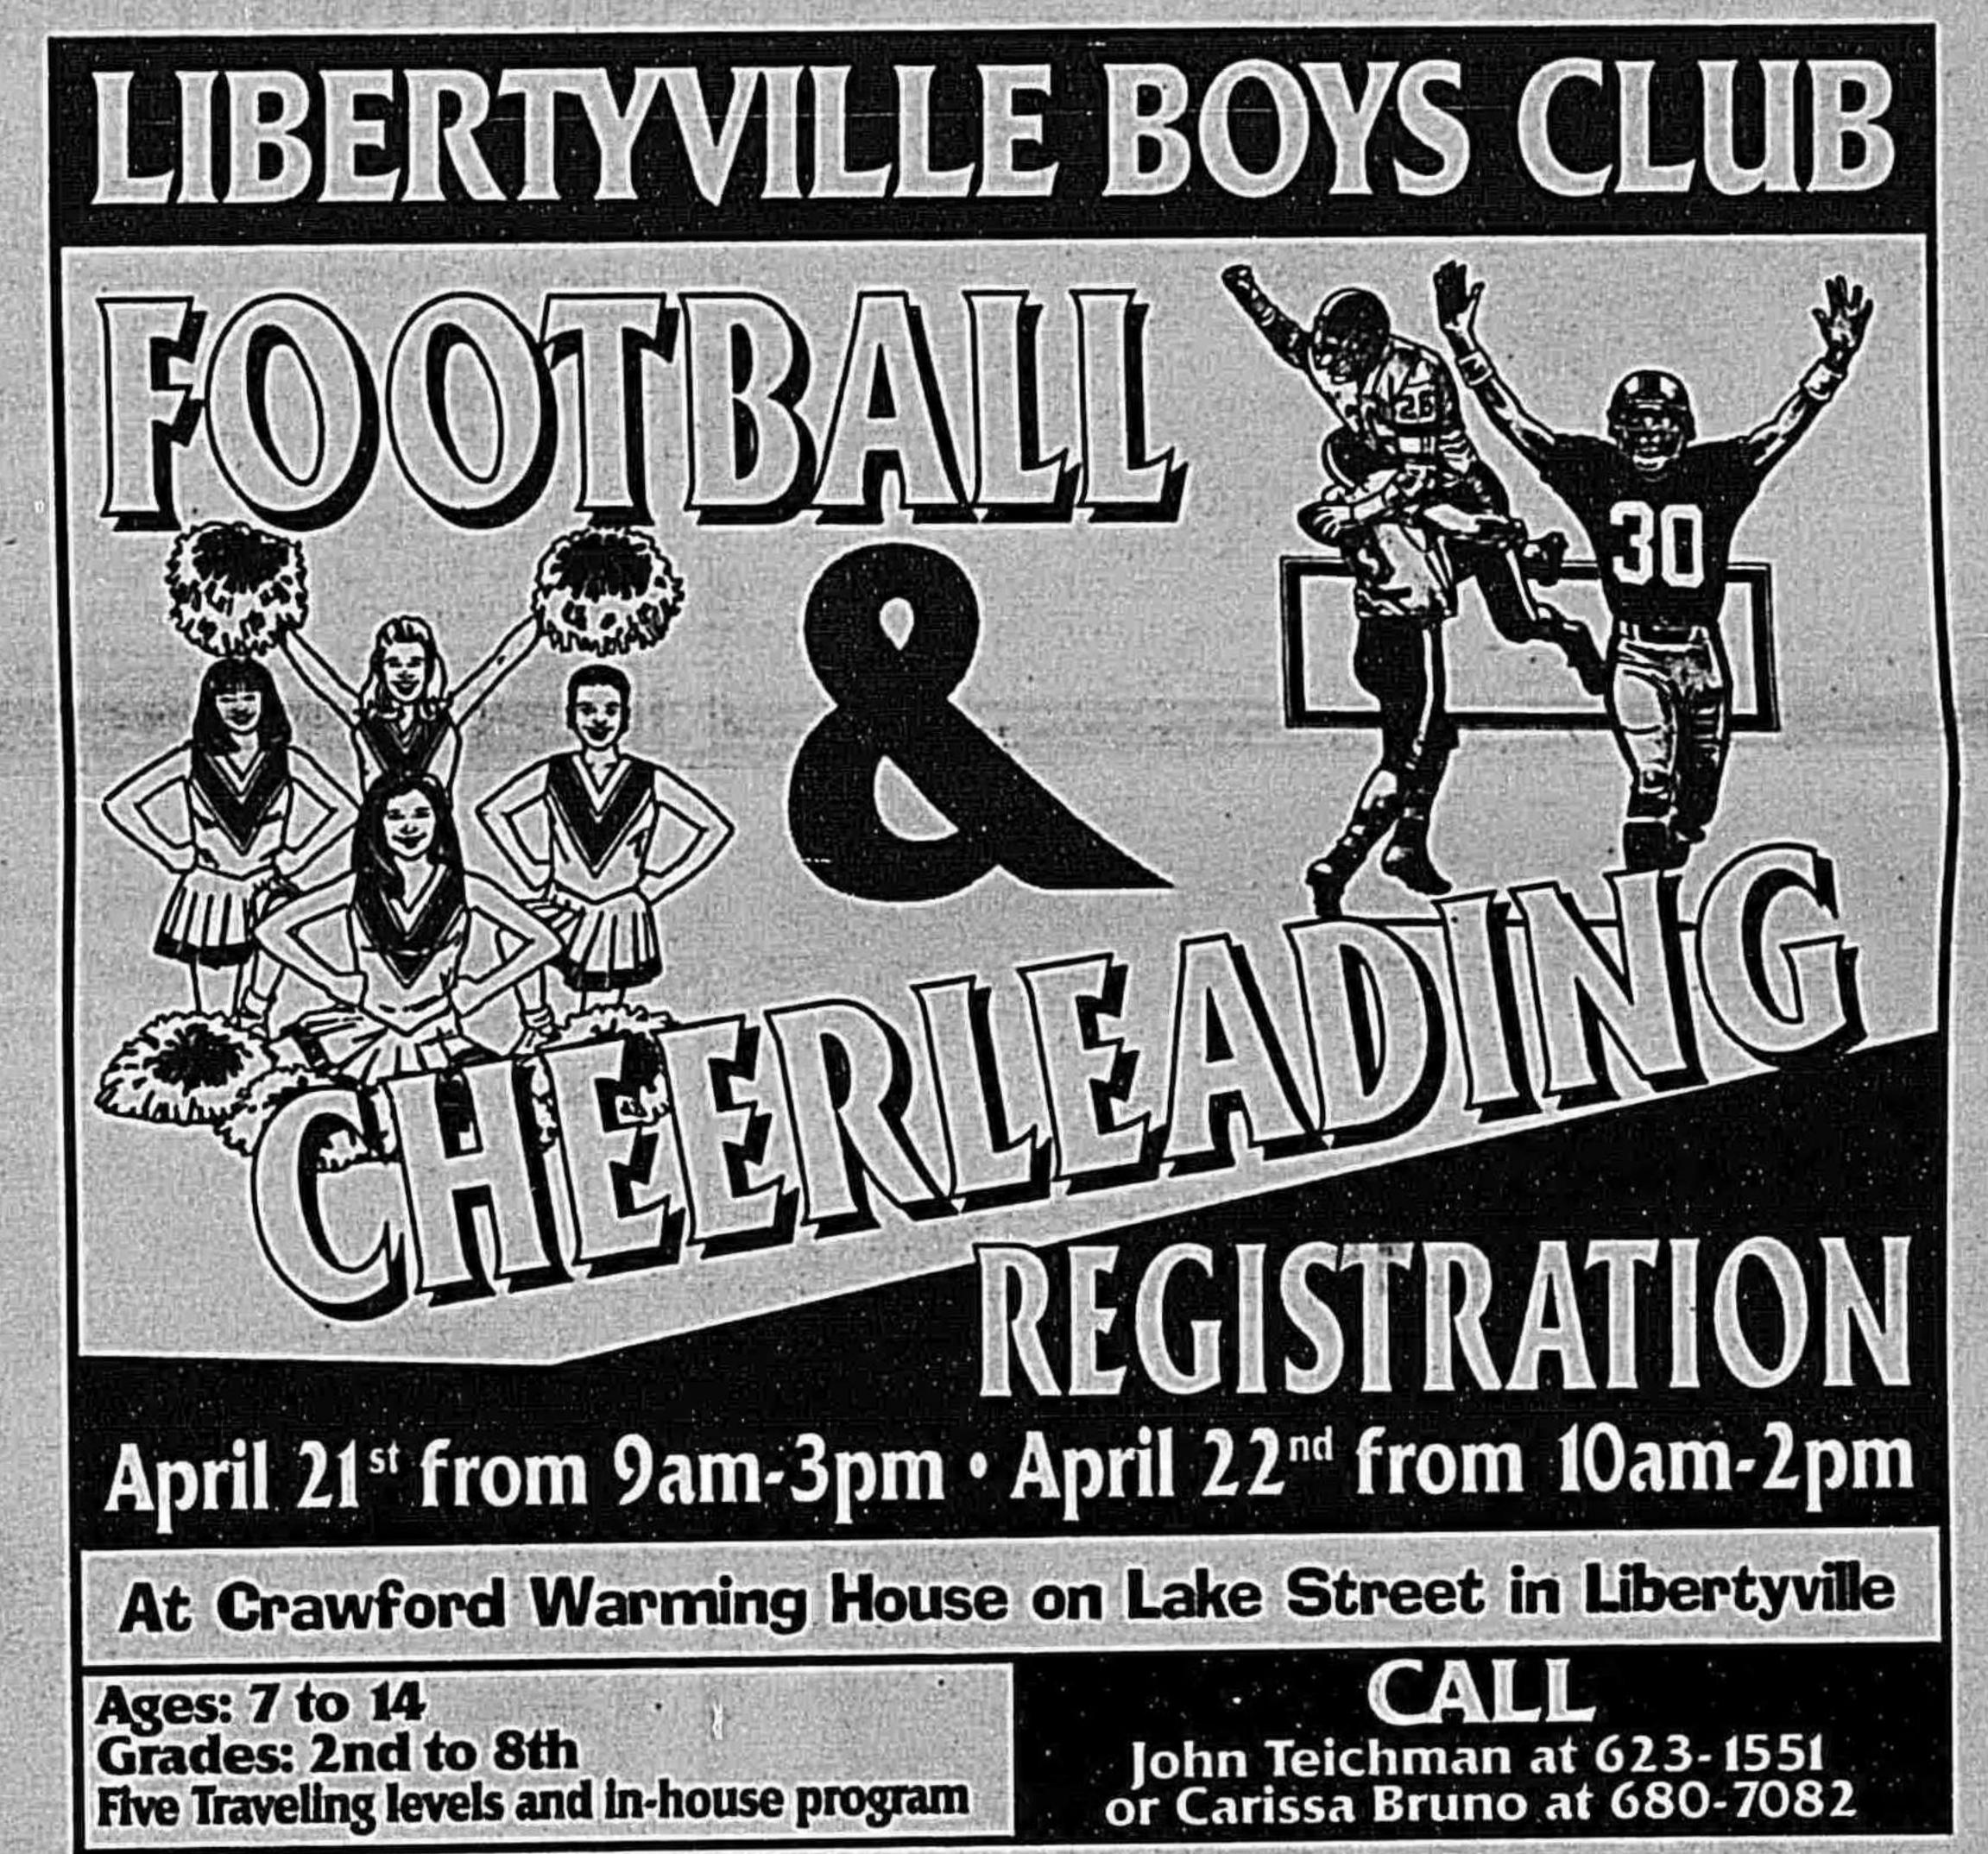

We've all heard the myths about eyesight - or are they really myths? Sitting too close to the television, reading in dim light, eating carrots - we've all heard at least one of those at one time in our lives. But is there any truth to the myths or are they just old wives tales? According to Michael Lawrence Cohen, vice president of Professional Services, following are some common myths and facts:

 Sitting too close to the television will damage your eyes. Myth. Many people sit too close to the television because they can't see well, but sitting too close will not make your eyesight worse.

•Reading in dim light will damage your eyes. Myth. Poor lighting will cause eye strain and fatigue, but not permanent damage.

 Reading fine print for a long period of time will damage your eyes. Myth. You may experience eye fatigue, but no permanent damage will be created. To rest your eye muscles, look at something as far away as possible. (Ideally out a window)

 An eye examination is necessary only if you're experiencing difficulty seeing. Myth. Your eyes should be examined on a regular basis to check for eye disease and changes in your eye sight. In addition, diseases like high blood pressure and diabetes can be detected with an eye exam.

College of Lake County Sports Roundup

Pitching helps Lancer baseball click on all cylinders

By MIKE KRIZMAN Correspondent

When the College of Lake County baseball team faced Oakland on April 10, they were going up against one of the top teams in the Skyway Conference. When the day was over, the Lancers had swept a double header.

Behind a strong pitching performance from Warren graduate Matt Mitchell in the first game, CLC came away with a 2-1 victory. Mitchell allowed only three harmless singles while striking out seven. It was a remarkable accomplishment against a team that had a .380 batting average coming into the game.

"He (Mitchell) throws around 90 mph and doesn't walk many guys," Lancer coach Gene Hanson said. "He's just a very dominant pitcher."

CLC took the lead early in the game. In the top of the first, Adam Miller reached base on a leadoff single. He would eventually score from third on a wild pitch, putting his team ahead, Oakton would later tie the game in the top of the third, but CLC came right back in the bottom half of that inning. Brett McCollum scored from third on a single by Jason Schuler for the eventual winning run.

In the second game, CLC would win again, this time by a score of 4-0.

The Lancers took the lead in the second inning when Steve Weidner drove in Schuler on a single. Later in the fifth, McCollum doubled and eventually scored on a Dave Paddock single. Paddock would eventually score later in the inning off the bat of Rhett Kivland.

CLC picked up another insurance run when Chris Draska led off the sixth inning with a triple. Adam Donohoe's squeeze bunt eventually drove in the run for the game's final score.

"I think the difference today was our intensity level was much higher," Hanson said. "Earlier in the year we lost to some teams that we probably shouldn't have lost to because our heads weren't in the game. But everyone came to play today."

The win gave the Lancers an overall record of 4-2 in the conference and 23-8 overall. On top of that, the Lancers beat a formidable conference opponent. That's something Hanson would like to see continue.

"If we're going to have a shot at the conference title, we can't lose anymore conference games," he said. "We have to keep playing like we did today."

Other CLC action Women's Softball

The Lady Lancers (10-9, 3-3 Skyway) continue to hover around the .500 mark after a 2-2 week in which they were swept by Moraine Valley in a doubleheader and bounced back to sweep Marquette in a doubleheader.

In the first game against Marquette all nine starters had at least one hit as the Lady Lancers won the game 14-5. Stacie Peterson (4-for-4, four runs, 2 RBI), Amy Springer (3-for-3, four runs, 2 walks, two stolen bases) and Kaeleen O'Connell (3-for-5, one run, one RBI) led CLC. Maggie Stewart, Kristen Pagano, Tiffany Sourmeier and Nancy Bleim each had two hits and Brooke Pollard jacked out her fourth home run of the season. O'Connell (3-1) went the distance, surrendering five hits, one earned run and two walks while striking out three.

CLC won the bottom half of the doubleheader 15-4 in five innings. Tiffany Paddock (5-5) went the distance giving up eight hits and four runs with one strikeout.

Peterson (3-for-4, three runs, two RBI), Pollard (3-for-4, two runs, two RBI), Bleim (2-for-2, one run) and Krista Hauck (2-for-4, one RBI). "Today we hit," said head coach Sue Garcia.

Men's tennis

The Lancers remained winless on the young season (0-4) after losses to Joliet and North Central College.

CLC played very well against Joliet but came up short 6-3. Dan Clarke had an outstanding match, besting his opponent 6-4, 1-0 in a default. Clarke later teamed up with Dan O'Connel to win 8-6 in a doubles match. Jimichael Slaby and Andy York won their first match of the season by a score of 8-5 and York went on to play a tough match at No. 6 singles but lost 4-6, 7-6, 7-6 (7-2).

Against North Central College the Lancers were swept 9-0. O'Connel played an outstanding match but lost by a score of 6-4, 6-0. New and Notes

The CLC athletic department has announced it has coaching openings for men's basketball, men's tennis, women's tennis and women's volleyball. Interested parties should contact Athletic Director Gene Hanson at 543-2046.—Rob Backus contributed to this report.

Condo surge spurs move to ownership

Buying a home is usually one of the largest investments that people make and it's up to the individual to determine if the benefits of buying outweigh those of renting.

Financially buyers must make a down payment, cover closing costs, mortgage costs and property taxes, all items that renters do not have to worry about. Also, the actual upkeep of the house and property are the sole responsibility of the homeowner, both physically and financially.

However, there are many financial benefits to buying that cannot be achieved through renting. The physical purchase in itself is an investment. If the home is bought in a growing area, the property will appreciate in value while the mortgage cost stays constant. This can allow homeowners to eventually sell for more than the original purchase price. Besides the home being an investment, many homeowners site tax benefits as a main reason for switching to buying from renting.

Along with the financial benefits of owning a home come the emotional rewards as well. "Buying seemed like a natural progression for us for many reasons," said Jeff Bohmer, a homeowner on the Southwest side of Chicago. "We now fell much more a part of the community since we have a vested interest in the surrounding area and we are much less restricted as far as decorating and landscaping and we can truly call it home."

Privacy, and the idea of living on your own terms - not your landlord's - are also reasons for choosing buying over renting.

The overall trend from renting to buying in the Chicagoland area can be attributed to multiple factors, but one of the main reasons seems to be the overwhelming numbers of condominium conversions and new construction being developed.

Since the early 1990's, close to 8,000 major rental units in Chicago have been converted to condominiums, according to the Appraisal Research Counselors Ltd. Also, many people are finding that rent in the Chicago area is sometimes as high as a mortgage payment that they could be making on a house. This point; as well as the realization that many mortgage lenders are only requiring buyers to put as little as three to five percent down, makes buying very attractive to those paying higher rents.

The decision to buy is not easy, but in the long-term, real estate provides a solid investment. "Buyers should use all available resources to find the home that is right for them, said MacKinnon. "Ultimately, buyers will find what they are looking for and will be able to begin reaping the benefits of being a homeowner."

Good looking, good living

These two photos illustrate why attached homes with creative exteriors and user-friendly floor plans continue in popularity in the Lakeland area. Exterior photo shows styling incorporating rowhome, villa and condominiums. Interior photo illustrates upgrades including hardwood flooring and nine-foot ceilings. Photos are from South Commons, Deerfield, where buyers get a full basement, private patio off the family room and an attached two-car garage.

Consider refinancing to consolidate debt

When the economy slows down, many Americans become more concerned about paying off debt.

Consumer debt now stands at an all-time high, accounting for 23.3 percent of income in 2000, up from 15,8 percent in 1990, according to Dr. Sung Sohn, chief economist of Wells Fargo & Company. Moreover, credit card borrowing has doubled, surpassing $37 billion.

"In today's society, it's relatively easy to access credit and take on a considerable amount of debt. Unfortunately, it's not as easy to pay off that debt," said Cheryl Brinkman, area manager for the Grayslake area of Wells Fargo Home Mortgage. "Many Americans, however, are beginning to leverage their biggest asset — their home — to pay off or to consolidate high interest debt, such as credit cards or car loans."

Debt consolidation loans have become a common option for consumers seeking to lower total interest paid on debt and to reduce required monthly payments. There are two main types of debt consolidation loans secured, which require collateral or unsecured, which do not require collateral.

A secured loan that uses equity in a home as collateral is a home equity loan or line of credit. Home equity loans are generally available with fixed interest rates, while home equity lines typically offer variable interest rates, which can be very competitive when interest rates are low. Home equity financing is typically less expensive than unsecured consumer loans and the interest may be tax de-. ductible.

"We're seeing more and more consumers take advantage of a home equity loan or line of credit for everything from debt consolidation to home improvement projects," Brinkman said. "By doing so, they're able to pay off other debts that cost more due to higher interest rates. In addition to saving on interest, they may lower their monthly payments and qualify for tax deductions."

Cash-out refinancing has become another viable solution for homeowners to consolidate debt. Consumers who have equity in their home can refinance an existing mortgage for a larger sum. This allows homeowners to pay off the old mortgage and apply the extra cash toward higher-interest debt, or to pay for things such as a college education, a home improvement project, vacation or a new car.

Brinkman provided the following example to demonstrate a cash-out refinance: A homeowner needs $50,000 to remodel a kitchen. In reviewing their finances, the homeowner owes $100,000 on a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage at 8.5 percent on a home valued at $200,000. Instead of obtaining a home equity loan, the homeowner could refinance $150,000 at around 7 percent. The homeowner would use $100,000 to pay off the existing mortgage and receive $50,000 in cash to pay for the remodeling expenses.

"Today's homeowners are finding cashout refinancing is a great way to consolidate debt, particularly in a decline interest rate environment," Brinkman said. "And, unlike 🦠 some other forms of debt, the interest on the mortgage has the advantage of being tax deductible."

Ponds, decks, landscaping entice condo shoppers

The appeal of Village Green condominiums is enhanced by ponds, sundecks and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubs as well as a landscaped, Europeanstyle courtyard. Together with large open green spaces it will create a cohesive environment for Lincholshire, explains Helen Weiss, a principal of Weiss Development Corp.

'The development plan provides lovely views and bicycle and pedestrian links to the community's trail system that serves as an informal recreational amenity and another way owners can enjoy the surrounding natural beauty," she noted. Other recreational amenities will include an outdoor swimming pool with a sundeck, an exercise facility and a community room.

"There is one more amenity that is equally exciting to us and Village Green owners and that is the dramatic evolution of Lincolnshire itself," said Weiss.

"After much thoughtful study and the adoption of a single comprehensive plan, what was long been a quiet, affluent bedroom community is now creating its first downtown — an active and attractive focal point of village life. And just a few steps from Village Green Condomini-

She continued: "We've worked closely with the village so that our building design and materials complement those of the downtown plan. We're pleased to be an integral part of Lincolnshire's future and to know that a walk along tree-lined boulevards will take our residents to fine retail stores, excellent restaurants and conveniences such as a grocery, pharmacy and bank."

Luxurious interior appointments in Phase II (Building C) include formal entries with coffered ceilings and ceramic tile and wood floors, a choice of berber or plush carpeting in living areas, 8'8" ceilings in living areas, 14-foot ceilings in penthouse units, fireplaces (per plan), bay windows with light transoms (per plan), and much more.

Kitchens include European-style cabinetry, pantries, solid-surface counter tops, ceramic tile floors, and Jenn-Air appliances including self-cleaning gas ranges with sealed burners, built-in microwave ovens, side-by-side refrigerators with icemakers, dishwashers and disposers. Double-bowl Kohler porcelain sinks and faucets are also standard. Several breakfast rooms lead to private terraces.

Luxurious all-Kohler master baths include soaker tubs, separate shower enclosures, double-bowl vanity tops and recessed medicine cabinets.

Life-safety features include an intercom/closed-circuit security system to the lobby, fully sprinklered residences and common areas, alarmed smoke detectors, sound-resistant technologies and barrierfree design elements throughout.

RE/MAX Grand picks Lake Villa location

Three successful years after opening RE/MAX Grand in Ingleside, broker/owners Susan Gust and Carolyn Theesfield have opened a second RE/MAX Grand office at 101 S. Milwaukee Ave. in Lake Villa.

The new Lake Villa office, seven miles east of the Ingleside location, puts Gust and Theesfield in the spot they initially targeted three years ago when opening their busi-

"Lake Villa was our first choice at that time, but we just couldn't find a suitable site for our office so we decided to go west and establish ourselves in the Fox Lake/Ingleside area," said Gust. "When we learned that as rip center was available in Lake Villa, we moved quickly to acquire it and set up a second office."

The new 2,000-square-foot office initially will be a mix of private and semi-private offices, plus two conference rooms, and will accommodate up to 20 agents. However, expansion space is available to eventually double that capacity. The office offers a range of high-tech features, including digital scanners and high-speed Internet access.

The Ingleside office had just three agents when it opened, but now has 19. agents plus support staff.

"We think there is a great opportunity to grow our business in the Lake Villa/Lindenhurst area, which has become the focus of significant new residential and commercial development," said Gust. "We are now in the heart of one of Lake County's most dynamic growth corridors, and we also serve Wisconsin because several agents in the office are licensed there, as well as in Illinois. Because we are active in a number of distinct market areas, we are members of three Realtor boards and four multiple listing services."

Licensed in both Illinois an Wisconsin, Gust is a resident of Lake Villa. She received her real estate license in 1990 and joined the RE/MAX organization in 1993. Theesfield because an agent in 1989 and joined RE/MAX in 1991. She lives in Antioch.

'Volcanoes' invite insects, Renting advantages cloud disease in tree trunks

Spring is in the air and so is the flurry of home remodeling projects

*Protect trees adjacent to construction areas by fencing off root zones. Remember that roots are rarely deeper than 24 inches, with the majority of the most valuable roots in the top six inches of soil. These roots extend out a minimum one and a half times the width of the branch canopy. If equipment absolutely must pass over root areas, spread a thick layer (12-inch minimum) of wood chips to help absorb the weight. Always have an arborist/horticulturist involved in the early planning stages of the project.

*Avoid putting steep mounds of soil or mulch up against the trunks of trees, creating "volcanoes." Though unsightly and unnatural, it also invites insects and promotes diseases. Keep the soil or mulch at the natural ground level around the base of trees, ornamentals and shrubs — no more than three inches deep.

*Divide perennials to prevent crowding, loss of vigor, and vulnerability to diseases.

Many, such as iris and lilies, benefit from being divided about every three years.

*Consider a professional Plant Health Care maintenance program, using a yearlong, systematic and preventive approach instead of reacting to insect and disease problems as they occur. Many landscape and tree care companies offer this program.

*Apply pre-emergent crab grass herbicide to turf, carefully following instructions on the product label. To reduce cost and overapplication, apply only along hard surfaces and over last year's known infested areas. Do not apply herbicides to turf areas that you plan to reseed.

*Consider planting narcisus, hyacinth and scilla bulbs next fall if animals are eating your emerging tulips and crocuses this spring. There are no proven substances to keep animals away.

long run buy benefits

In the past couple of years, Chicagoland residents have been witness to a red-hot real estate market with sellers asking top dollar and buyers willing to pay.

The drive to buy while prices soar is seen in the countless condo conversions in the city and the new subdivisions popping up in the suburbs. The year 2000 saw a strong, stable economy and a low unemployment rate. These factors, coupled with reasonable interest rates, attracted many people in the area to own real estate.

The homeownership rate in the country is now at an all-time high. Of the total number of households in the United States, more than 65 percent are owner occupied. There have never been so many people willing to act upon their desires to own a home of their own. Renters are utilizing the wealth of information available to them to examine the benefits of both renting and buying; and many are seeing that buying offers them advantages that may never be achieved through renting.

For many young people living in the Lakeland area, renting has become their first option because of a lack of money saved and frequent moves. Benefits of renting include not having to cover a down payment or property taxes. Monthly payments are usually less and renters are not directly financially responsible for the upkeep of their home.

Those who rent are able to use their extramoney each month to pursue other investment options, but as a downside, they receive no financial return on their monthly rentpayment. Some renters begin to see renting as a financial setback when decent apartments are difficult to find at a reasonable

While there are benefits of renting that are attractive, it tends to be a stepping-stone toward buying for many people.

People are often driven into the home buying market once they realize that their monthly rent payments hold no benefit for them in the long run.

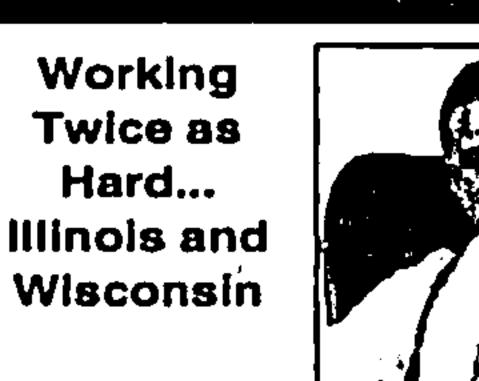

"There are more resources available today to help younger people realize that buying holds financial advantages and may be a better option for them down the road," said Vicki MacKinnon, associate for Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage. Renters are limited by not having the ability to build equity and may also be faced with rent increases that outpace the inflation rate. While rent increase with time, fixed-rate mortgages stay the same, so they become less per month in the long-term.

For a child or adult with developmental or learning disabilities, making friends and becoming involved in community activities can be difficult.

That's where The Center for Enriched Living comes in. The Center, located in Riverwoods, in south Lake County, is a life enrichment and skill development center for children and adults with developmental disabilities, most of whom have a primary diagnosis of mental retardation.

Since it was founded in 1968, The Center has moved around to various rented locations in Chicago, Skokie, Highland Park and Deerfield. Although membership was good in these locations, space constrictions limited programming options. In June of 2000, The Center opened the doors of a brand new building, designed specifically for their members needs.

Located just of I-94 at 280 Saunders Rd. The Center's new 20,000 square foot home includes: a lounge and recreation room where members can relax and socialized; a teaching kitchen for cooking, nutrition and budgeting skills; a practice apartment where they can learn vital independent living skills; an arts and crafts room for creative learning; a large gym-

Decks allow homeowners to turn style inside out

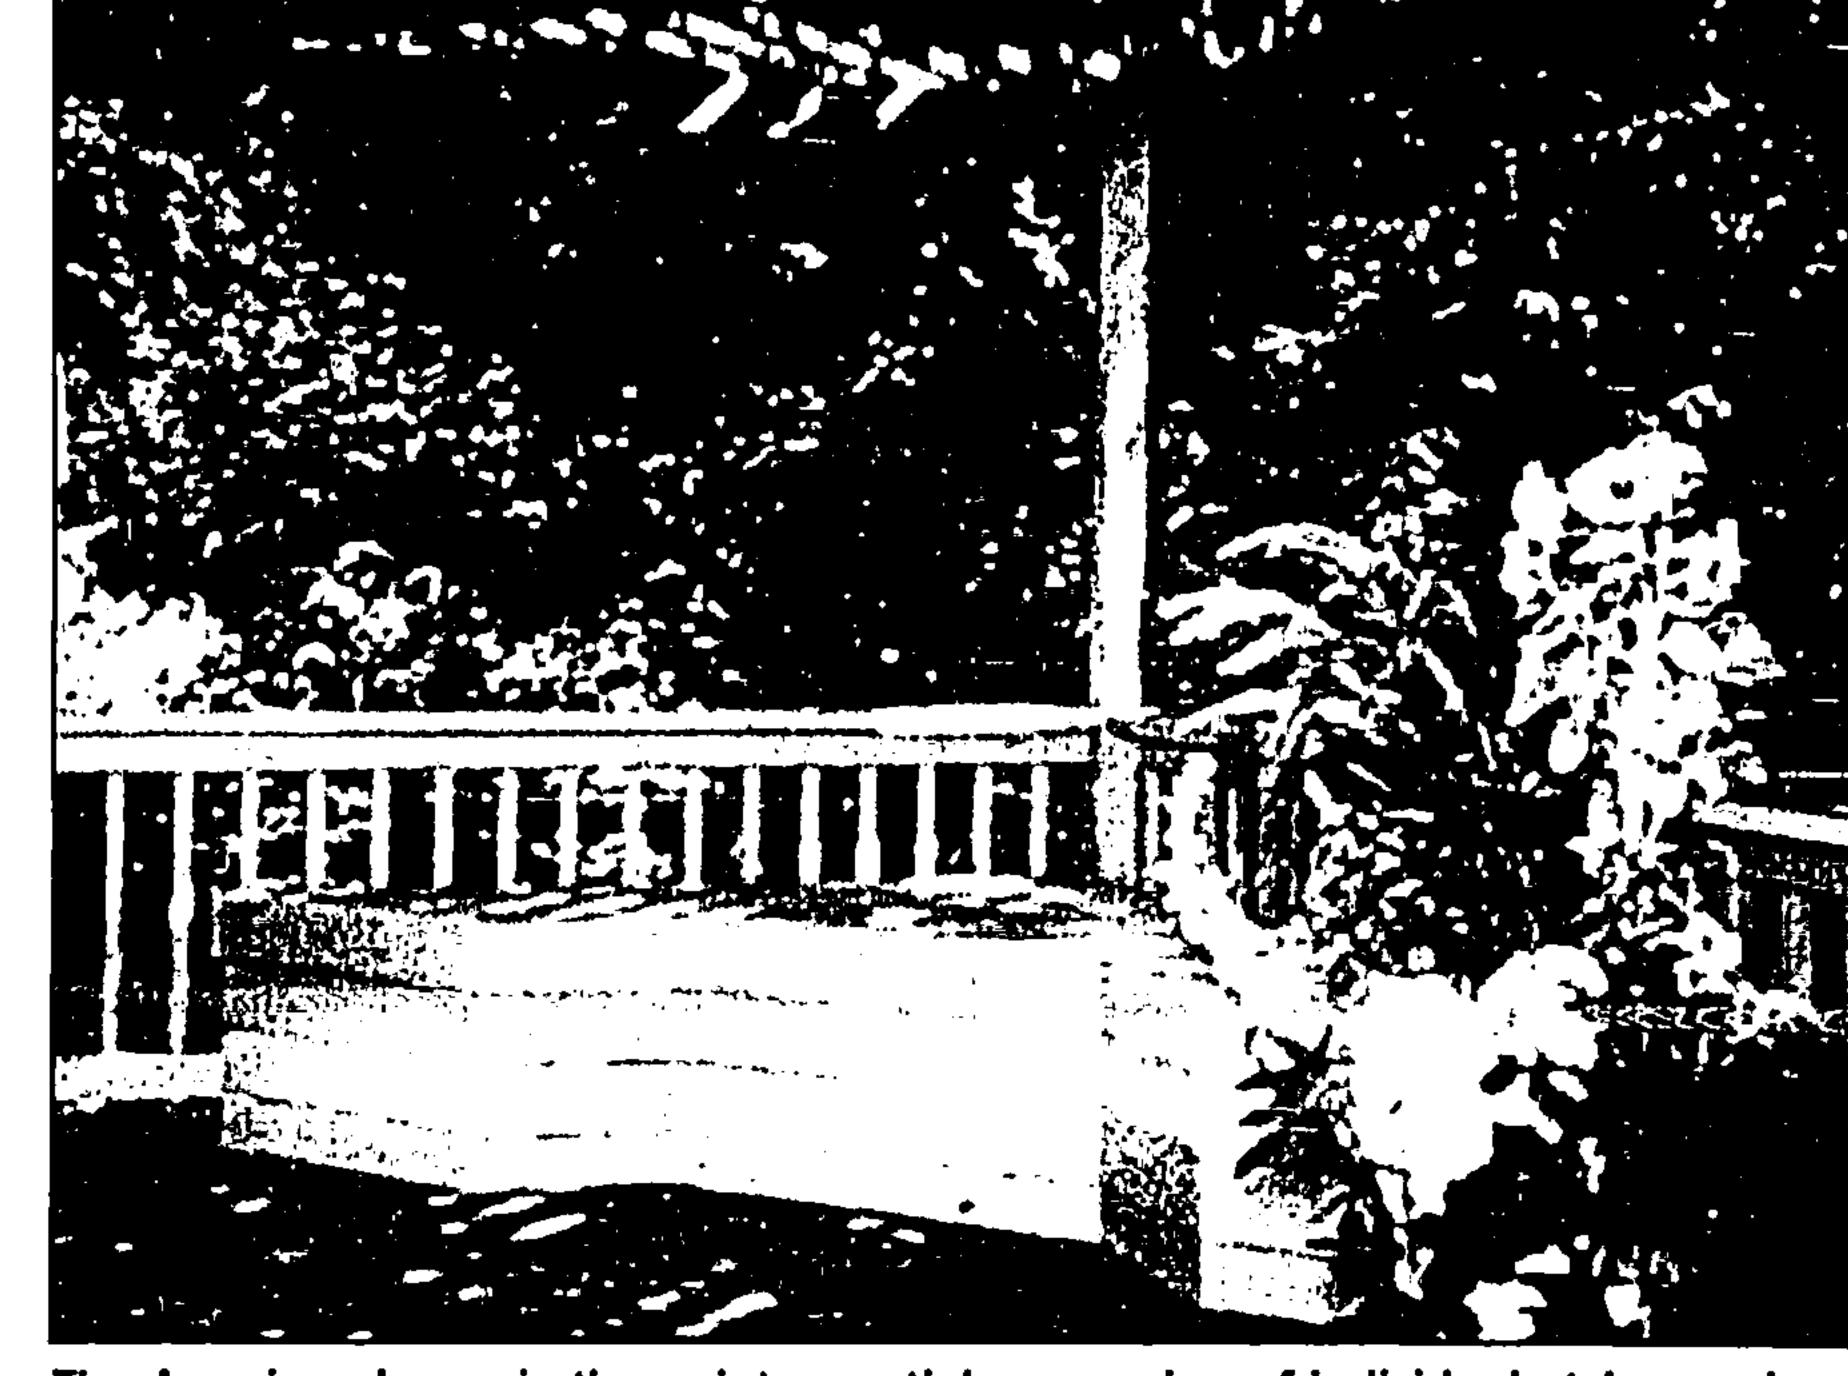

The American home is the quintessential expression of individual style - a place that reflects personality and so much more. But as the trend toward outdoor entertaining and dining grows, so has the opportunity for homeowners to apply their sense of style to backyard decks.

"Why would you want your personality to end at the backdoor? Decks have moved beyond a brown, square extension on the home. There are so many elements you can bring to your deck that will make it as much of a reflection of your family as the interior of your home," says Pat Coughlin, of The Flood Company, makers of deck stains, finishes and cleaners for over 150 years.

Coughlin offers the following suggestions to bring your personality outdoors this season:

Incorporate hobbies and interests. There are several features you can build into a deck that will enable you to bring the activities and interests of your family to your outdoor living space. For example, if you enjoy reading a book by the window during the colder months, creating a reading nook outdoors is even better in the spring and summer. A bench underneath an arbor provides the perfect secluded spot for your reading enjoyment.

The American home is the quintessential expression of individual style - a place that reflects personality and so much more. But as the trend toward outdoor entertaining and dining grows, so has the opportunity for homeowners to apply their sense of style to backyard decks.

If you have children with lots of toys, move the playroom outdoors during the warmer months by creating a bench with a built-in storage space. When guests unexpectedly come over, all the children's toys can be quickly tucked away.

Define your style with color. Nothing can give your deck personality better than color. A deep red deck communicates a different personality than one that is noutral beige. Select a color (or more than one) that illustrates your family best. With all the colors available in semi-transparent and solid color stains today, there is no boundary to your selection. If you decide to pick more than one color to accent, make sure that the colors complement each other and the house.

Flood makes both solid color and semitransparent stains that are available in a variety of colors and are guaranteed to last. Flood Solid Color Deck and Siding Stain is guaranteed against peeling for five years on decks and 15 years on siding. Flood Semi-Transparent Deck and Siding Stain is guaranteed against peeling and fading for three years on decks and five years on siding.

Add the right touch of personality with details. There are several ways to subtly incorporate your personality into your outdoor living space. Place your favorite flowers in pots around the deck. Or, if you don't have a green thumb, stencil them on railings, stair risers or floorboards. Sunflowers, daisies and ivy can all adorn your deck by stenciling with a solid color stain.

Furniture and accessories can also add the details you need to complete your deck. The varieties in outdoor furniture styles and materials give you several options when selecting furniture for your deck. While a dining table and chairs may be suitable for your neighbor, perhaps a bar set-up and lounge chairs is better for your family. Shop around to find the right furniture and accessories for your deck.

How 'whole home' insulation cuts bills, aids comfort

Energy bills through the roof? You're not alone. But you are in luck.

William Ryan Homes has introduced a new home energy program called Certified PLUS Home, which promises to reduce energy use and bills by up to 30 percent compared to standard built homes, while at the same time creating more comfortable home living environments.

The company is the first and currently the only builder in the Chicagoland area to offer this kind of program and savings to new home buyers in Lake County at Cross Creek, Lindenhurst, and Ancient Oaks in Valley Lakes, Round Lake.

"We jumped at the opportunity to get involved with this program," said Peter Balistreri, vice president of sales and marketing for William Ryan Homes. "It was an easy decision considering our homes already met most of the requirements for certification. With just a few minor changes we now can offer buyers tremendous energy savings and the increased value of owning a Certified PLUS home."

Developed by Certain Teed Corporation, a leading insulation manufacturer, in conjunction with E.I.C., Inc., an independent energy engineering firm, the Certified PLUS Home program helps builders maximize the efficiency of energy systems in newly constructed homes. Using a whole house approach, the program ensures proper air flow throughout the home while eliminating the infiltration of outside air that can creep in around door/window frames and electrical outlets causing unwanted drafts and stuffiness. In essence, a thermal barrier to created around all living areas resulting in consistent room temperatures, uniform comfort and optimum energy efficiency.

William Ryan Homes has committed to making every one of its new homes a Certified PLUS home. To earn certification, the builder starts by creating an individualized energy system for each new home. Precisely-sized heating and cooling equipment is selected and insulation R-values are chosen based on the specific region and climate of the home.

"No two homes are alike when it comes to energy use," explained Balistreri. "Site location and the orientation of the home on the site greatly affect how it performs thermally. Even homes with the exact same floor plan can vary greatly in their energy specifications. That is why it is so important to approach each home individually."

During construction, third-party representatives of E.I.C. conduct a complete room-by-room heat gain/loss analysis and provide CFM and BTU requirements for each living area. William Ryan Homes then follows the exacting energy specifications for the home before it is caulked, sealed and insulated. After construction, E.I.C. representatives return to conduct a rigorous fivestep performance evaluation to assure that any potential air penetration sites have been tightly sealed, insulation has been properly installed and heating and air conditioning systems are operating at top efficiency.

If the home fails any of the tests, E.I.C., alerts the builder allowing them to make adjustments before construction is finished. E.I.C. then runs the complete five-step process again. Only when a home passes all of the performance tests will it be deemed a Certified PLUS home. Once the home is certified, the buyer receives a Certified PLUS Home Warranty, complete with an estimate of their home's heating and cooling costs. Using the E.I.C. analyses of each home, energy projections are determined and a computer-generated report is prepared telling buyers what to expect in terms of fuel usage and costs for the first three years. If more energy is used than projected during that time, it's free.

"Buyers appreciate knowing in advance what it's going to cost to heat and cool their homes, especially considering how unpredictable gas prices have been lately," said Balistreri. "They also appreciate the added resale value certification gives their homes."

Certified PLUS Home buyers can also qualify for special energy-efficient mort-gages with special terms.

Think spring ... Fresh ideas for your walls

Spring is a time to start fresh and try new things. So, there is no better time than now to experiment and be adventurous in your own

You can start by adding a little life to your home with these simple suggestions from Art.com. These techniques will add texture and depth to your walls and accentuate your art-

Emphasize your artwork with paint:

 Using either stencils or freehand drawings, create an additional frame for your artwork by painting a few simple accents on the walls surrounding your framed art. Choose an accent that will compliment the subject matter of your artwork. For example, you could accent a framed landscape or still life print with painted ivy or ribbons. For a more modern piece, you may try using geometric shapes or overlapping thin lines to border the entire piece of artwork. Experiment on paper to find the right accent for your artwork.

 Create a three-dimensional look that will draw more attention to your artwork with color-blocking techniques. This can be achieved by painting a rectangle on the wall where you plan to hang your art. To do this, measure the artwork and mark the space on the wall where you plan to hang it. Next, carefully paint a rectangle considerably larger than the size of your artwork. Using a third color, paint a thin border around the edge of the rectangle you just painted to create a more finished look. After the paint has dried, hang your framed print. Your new wall should look more dramatic and provide a greater emphasis on your artwork. Accent with shelves and ledges:

 Draw attention to your framed artwork by installing small shelves or narrow ledges on your walls to showcase your art. This works well if you do not have a fireplace with a mantel. Temporary shelving comes in all sorts of shapes and sizes and can be installed symmetrically for a more traditional setting or staggered for a more contemporary look.

Depending on the weight of your artwork and the sturdiness of the shelves, you can elther place the artwork directly on the shelves or hang the artwork above it. Place accent objects, such as candles, vases, books, etc., on the shelves below the artwork to further compliment your art.

If you are looking for an even easier way to brighten up your home this season, bring the outdoors inside with some new bright floral , prints or elegant black-and-white nature photography. These breathtaking images from Art.com will reinvigorate your soul and your

Despite gas hikes landlords skirt mayor rent increases

KELLER WILLIAMS.

Each Office Independently Owned And Operated

Despite record-high prices for heating gas this winter, many apartment renters will be surprised to find their worst fears of large rent increases never come to pass, said Judy Roettig, executive vice president of the Chicagoland Apartment Assn.

The non-profit group represents 300 members who are owners and managers of more than 105,000 apartment units and associated industry vendors throughout the greater six-county Chicagoland area, including Lake County.

In many cases, owners of large to midsized apartment buildings have been able to skirt soaring natural gas costs this winter by taking advantage of programs offered by gas suppliers, such as bulk and contract purchases, Roettig said.

High-tech, super-efficient heating equipment is also helping keep expenses down, energy expert say.

In any case, said Roettig, landlords from the smallest 2-flats to the largest apartment tower buildings know they cannot recover all of their increased heating gas costs from tenants.

"Rent increases may not be higher than in prior years when they were typically 5 percent to 8 percent," Roettig said. "Rents are market-driven."

Roettig explained that as business people, most property owners realize rent hikes of 10 percent or more to recoup heating costs could backfire, leaving them with empty apartments and increased turn-around expenses.

"There are different ways to make up for the higher costs besides major rent increases," said Diana Julian-Pittro, general manager of The Habitat Company's four-building, 2, 346apartment Presidential Towers complex.

"Property owners will do more bulk natural gas purchasing, make more use of advance gas contracts, then perhaps plant fewer flowers outside and adjust overall spending in other ways," she said.

"It doesn't serve any purpose to sharply raise rents. If you did, everyone would just move out," Julian-Pittro said.

Apartment experts say it is better to take advantage of sophisticated techniques for holding down increases that were inevitable, as many landlords have done.

Although government and consumer protection agencies are still looking into the reasons for the increase, experts say a few facts have emerged.

Several successive mild winters worked to hold down natural gas prices in the area. Heating gas hovered at around 30 to 32 cents per therm as late as March of 2000.

Raised beds make gardening easier

For most people, gardening is a relaxing, outdoor activity, as much anticipated as the coming of spring. But for those of us without the requisite 'green thumb,' the stress of tending to a garden and generating flourishing produce or flowers can be a daunting task. Still for others, the simple action of bending down for a long period of time deters them from enjoying their spring pastime.

Now, a different method of gardening, called raised-bed gardening, is increasing the enjoyment for gardeners everywhere, and making this sometimes strenuous activity productive and fun. Raised-bed gardens offer gardeners a number of advantages over conventional gardening.

Because you can easily supply your own soil mix, raised beds enable you to improve the quality of the soil where it naturally has a high clay content. The raised bed can also give you a head start on planting because its soil warms earlier than ground soil. You can work in wetter weather without getting your feet muddy or compacting the garden soil, and you can do less bending as you tend your plants and pick your vegetables.

A typical raised garden consists of long beds six inches to three feet high. The beds should be no broader than you can reach, but they can extend as far as your property lines allow. The path between beds can be as narrow as 12 inches or so. To prevent mud, you can top the path with gravel or build a preserved wood walkway.

Preserved wood is an excellent material to use when building raised beds. Because of its long life and ability to resist termites and decay, pressure-treated wood is ideal for the

"Some organic gardening publications have objected to the use of preserved wood in gardens because of the chemicals used to pressure-treat the wood," said Mel Pine, manager of communications for the American Wood Preservers Institute (AWPI) in Fairfax, VA. "But research conducted by extension agents and academics in Texas found no cause for aların."

Nevertheless, Pine added, gardeners who are concerned may line the wood with heavyduty plastic. A plastic drop cloth normally used for painting might be one inexpensive source for the plastic liner.

Once the walls of the raised bed have been constructed, you can fill in the beds with soil and compost. Then you're set to plant.

"While this construction program will be beneficial to the county highway system, because of the growth in the county, it will not be enough to meet the present needs of Lake County with respect to the highway congestion issue," stated Diana O'Kelly, Lake County board member and Public Works and Transportation committee chair.

"The County Board has identified transportation issues as a top goal and we will continue to seek financial solutions to this very important problem," added O'Kelly. "To that end a $120 million list of additional needed highway improvements has been identified."

ted to the County Board on April 3 included the following findings: Only four of the 32 lakes were moderately nutrient enriched, 17 were highly nutrient enriched and 11 were severely nutrient enriched. Fifty percent of the lakes had moderate shoreline erosion and 44 percent had severe shoreline erosion. Sixtysix percent of the lakes provided habitat for state threatened and endangered bird species. Only 6 percent of the lakes had state threatened and endangered aquatic plant species. Forty-four percent of the lakes had the exotic, nuisance aquatic plant species known as Eurasian water milfoil (EWM). . .

"Oftentimes people who live on lakes don't know exactly how to manage them, but the lakes clearly are in need of protection and management," said Galassie. "One association may use a herbicide, without realizing that other associations are too, and too much is going into the lake. Lakes Management helps form umbrella lake associations and works with them to solve problems."

The 32 lakes featured in the study include: Ames Pit near Wadsworth; Bresen and Forest lakes near Hawthorn Woods; Broberg istration and advisement services. In a separate action, the board extended the current out-of-district and out-of-state tuition rates through FY 2003. Out-of-district tuition will continue at $177 per credit hour and out-of-state tuition at $248 per credit hour.

During trustee reports, Board Chairman Richard Anderson asked the administration to send a letter to PACE requesting that the agency increase evening bus service for students attending classes at the Grayslake Campus. Expanding bus service to the campus has long been a concern of the board of trustees and the college administration. The request for the letter to PACE was made in response to concerns expressed by CLC students.

In personnel matters, the board approved the appointment of three administrators. Cornelia Bakker was appointed dean of the Learning Resource Center, Kathleen Scatliffe-Wallace, assistant director of human resources; and David Weatherspoon, director of student services at Lakeshore Campus in Waukegan. The board also renewed the employment of administrative and professional staff for fiscal year 2002 and granted professor emeritus status to art and humanities instructor Nancy Cook, after her retirement on May 31. Additionally, the board increased the rates of pay for parttime faculty teaching credit courses and continuing education and community service courses, effective fall 2001. The rates for part-time faculty teaching credit courses will be increased from $505, $530 and $555 per equated load hour to $600, $625 and $650. The rates for part-time instructors teaching continuing education and community service courses will be increased from $20, $22 and $24 per contact hour to $22, 24 and $26.

Finally, the board approved purchase contacts totaling approximately $67,000 to maintain the computerized card catalog system, lease Microsoft software license and purchase an annual local area network subscription to access library data bases.

We offer groups from grade school to junior high to high school," said Bob Ward.

In indoor soccer action, the Mundelein Magic U10 girls soccer team blanked the Ela Tiger Cubs 5-0. Mundelein's normally stingy defense kept Ela off the scoreboard while the offense remained potent with an explosion of goals.

Goals came early and often for the Magic, breaking at halftime with a 3-0 lead. Emily Peel put Mundelein on the scoreboard in the ninth minute, followed by Chelsea Grant in the 11th and Jamie Rasor in the 18th minute. With Michelle Rowley and Tory Dohm solidifying the center of the Magic defense, Ela had few good chances at the goal, protected by Nikki Allen.

Jessie Vogel and Jenna Schiller tallied for the Magic to complete the scoring. With defense anchored by Kim Carroll, Alli Havlik, Allison Hanas and Gina Iorio Mundelein held off a last minute push by the Tiger Cubs.

Mundelein began their outdoor season.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: What would you suggest? I have been employed with the same company for the past 2 years. The manager to which I report to is a mean man with little respect for anyone. He causes a lot of stress for all six of his employees (a few of them who have been here for 10 years), sending one employee, we believe, to the hospital earlier this week with what may be an ulcer. Rumor has it that the employee is going to claim Workman's Compensation and tell all to the insurance company about the way they are treated at our company. He constantly embarrasses, ridicules and disrespects anyone who works below his managerial level. Sad as this sounds, he gets away with it. I am at a point where I see that nothing is going to change, because this manager has only to report to the owner of the company who has not a clue as to what is going on. No one wants to come forward to speak of it for fear of losing their job or creating a worse situation should the manager find out. Is it time to move on? What would you suggest I do? F.B. - Mundelein

A: Unfortunately, there are nasty people in this world who further thrive on their authority and the ability to strut their stuff and push their weight around. How utterly pathetic! A good manager is one who has the ability to treat others like they themselves wish to be treated, has respect for the work that others do to make them look good, and certainly doesn't waste time throughout the day with ridicule, embarrassment and disrespect of their employees. I am sorry to tell you that this probably will not change since the owner is more than likely unaware of the complaints. If working 40 hours a week with this manager has become intolerable, I will suggest to you that you do not quit your Job until you have another lined up for yourself. Pass that on to others as well. This person sounds like the type that when you give notice, will not be kind and will not wish you well. I would however more than try to get an exit interview with the owner of the company, as soon as you have something else lined up. What good will it do? Well, the possibility does exist that if the owner is made aware of it, may be shocked, and bring in others that report to this person to get full details and evaluate the nature of the complaints. There is a lot to be said for experience on the job and loss of good quality long-term employees. Hopefully the owner will see that something is askew and be willing to listen and take action. No one can force you to stay, and no one should have to put up with an uncomfortable work environment. The owner may in fact ask you to stay. The choice is yours. Good luck.
